(Incorporated in England)

FROZEN PIPES

Freezing of water in pipes may result in pipes and fittings bursting and in damage to property when thawing occurs; for such damage the Company cannot accept responsibility.

To prevent freezing the stopcock inside houses should be closed and the piping emptied by opening all cold water taps. This should be done when the temperature is likely to fall below freezing point.

Hot water systems need not usually be so emptied but consumers are recommended to ensure that feed tanks and piping in the roof space are effectively insulated.

Water meters where fixed in exposed positions, and the pipes leading to and from them, must be protected against freezing by insulation with straw or other material.

Water wasted owing to frost burst or any other cause will be registered by the meter and must be paid for.

The Company is prepared to assist consumers provided the interests of plumbing contractors are not thereby interfered with.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS IN TIME.

Fine on Jewry:
Other Side of the Case

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Your correspondent H.H. quoting figures supplied by a News Agency comes to the conclusion that the paying of the "fine" imposed on the Jews in Germany should not prove very difficult. As H.H's letter appears in more than one local paper, it does, in his own words, give one to think, doesn't it? H. H. fails to mention that the figures on which he bases his contention were transmitted by Transocean, a German News Agency, and I for one, am inclined to take that message as downright propaganda. Every fair-minded reader must remember that Germany has its Ministry of Propaganda, and one cannot forget the fact that Hitler's "Mein Kampf" stresses the value of propaganda at any cost, even at the sacrifice of truth. Unfortunately, the general reader is not in a position to verify the accuracy of the figures and that drawback is what the propagandists bank upon.

Apart from this, it is one thing to put a value on an asset and another thing to realize it. Jews forced to liquidate have to accept whatever is offered and in this they have to rely on the tender mercies of their oppressors. A Jew would consider himself lucky if his forced sales were to net him a cripplingly small percentage of the value of his holdings, and it is out of this that he must pay his "fine."

Of course, as obviously the German Government is out to acquire Jewish wealth whatever it is, it would presumably not overstep the Jewish capacity to pay. But is this any reason why H. H. should treat the imposition with such naive complacency? Has he no word to say regarding the unjustifiable monstrosity of the "fine?"

JUSTICE.

Shanghai, Nov. 30.

A Loss of Respect

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I have always held your esteemed paper in the highest regard but after the letter which you permitted to be printed I have lost all respect for your daily.

Regarding H.H's letter of November 29, he must be deaf and dumb. Picking up a newspaper at the present time, all that you can see blazed in the headlines is the confiscation of Jewish property in Austria and Germany. And still a persecuted race is obliged to pay one milliard marks for a puppet of the Hitler régime, killed by a hot-headed Jewish youth.

One can look through the ages and see what became of countries which persecuted Jews. Egypt, Rome and Spain they all fell, and so will Germany.

H. H. is trying to quote figures and people. We are not a people but a nation. Every minute of the day I thank God that I am a Jew.

A REVISIONIST.

Shanghai, Nov. 30.

Scotties:
Dog Lover in Trouble

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Will some kind reader please give me some advice. I have a pedigreed Scottie over seven years old. He came from a very fine home and has had the best of care since puppyhood. In spite of this he loves delving into garbage cans and will eat dirt. What is the cause of this? Then his coat is not what it should be. He scratches himself all the time. One can expect that in summer, but to continue to do so now is puzzling as he has no fleas. Within the last six months he has been dewormed twice. I have given him arsenic drops. Garlic and bone meal are added to his food. A vet who saw him recently said he was in very good condition for his age, yet wonks which I have kept from time to time never indulged in eating dirty things and scratched so much.

Can somebody tell me what is the trouble?

DOG LOVER.

War Risk:
Wei Wah Currency

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—With reference to letters on this subject, I note that INTERESTED is not aware that Wei Wah currency is legal tender as between Chinese and foreigners, and I should be interested to know if he is aware that it is legal tender as between Chinese.

The Buses:
More Reforms Wanted

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I would appreciate it if you would kindly add this letter to the many which you have received for publication in your paper in connection with the "Bus Question."

It is a well-known fact that the population of Shanghai south of the Soochow Creek has increased tremendously within the past year, and that buses previously running in the northern areas are being utilized for new routes in the Settlement and added to the present routes to try and cope with the additional passengers.

Even with these additions office workers living anywhere between Ferry and Mohawk Roads, who wish to get into town from the hours of 8.15 to 9 a.m. or 1.15 to 2 p.m. find it almost an impossibility, as the buses are so over-crowded that the poor conductor is barely able to move in order to collect his fares, let alone allow anyone else on his bus.

Once aboard one sits and prays that there may not be a breakdown. And when it comes, which happens all too frequently, then it is every man for himself. The crowd is unmercifully told "next bus please," and dense suffocating clouds of black smoke pour out from under the vehicle, filling the eyes and nose of passengers, passers-by, and the roadway with a smoke-screen of which any army might be proud.

But of course these smoke screens are well rehearsed, as anyone can see any day on Bubbling Well Road.

I understand that the China General Omnibus Co. has a franchise in the Settlement. If the Company has not the amount nor the quality in buses to meet requirements, then it is about time something was done. It is about time ratepayers demanded their right to decent public service. There has been no objection raised to the Japanese omnibus service running in the northern district, then there also can be no objection raised to another Omnibus Company operating at this end.

Western Area:
Resident's Indignation

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Residents of the Western Area have undoubtedly read with great interest the letters which appeared in your issues of November 28, 29 and 30 regarding the intolerable conditions now prevailing in that residential district.

Nowhere in Shanghai are conditions in a more deplorable state than in the neighbourhood of Edinburgh and Great Western Roads.

During the night one is constantly kept awake by the deafening noise of native "watchmen" who, at regular intervals, walk around blocks of Chinese dwellings striking a gong or a large bamboo with a stick, therewith giving the signal to all dogs in the vicinity to engage in a barking concerto.

Workshops of all descriptions including iron works, blacksmith's shops, etc., operating day and night, with the attendant noise and smoke, contribute greatly to the discomfort of the harassed residents.

From the early hours of the morning till late at night the district is invaded by hordes of hawkers and pedlars of all kinds.

The fact that most of the abovementioned offences are committed in alleyways and in Chinese territory provides a convenient excuse to explain the inertness of the police who point out that they have no jurisdiction on such territory. Assuming that these scruples are justified and that there exist no effective means of evading the question of jurisdiction by employing plain clothes detectives, for instance, it should be observed that these alleyways have their issue either on Edinburgh Road or on Great Western Road and that delinquents could be apprehended at one time or another within the Settlement limits.

A few days ago between 11 p.m. and 2 a.m. a resident rounded up three native "watchmen" who were keeping the entire neighbourhood awake by their musical accompaniments. Police officials have expressed their "gratitude" for these apprehensions but we would prefer less words and more intelligent action on their part.

In no large city are people permitted to shriek at the top of their voices during the night. A few nights ago I saw in Edinburgh and Great Western Roads groups of twenty to thirty Chinese shouting and screaming as loud as they could under the complacent eye of police constables. In fact, the traffic constable on duty at the intersection was himself singing loudly.

In addition to all these nuisances, motor cars using these roads are in the habit of blasting their way through to the sound of their horns at all hours of the night. Such practice has been prohibited long ago in all large modern cities.

Everyone admits the desirability of enabling refugees to earn a living, but this process could surely be carried out with due consideration for the welfare of the residents and the interests of property owners. When we extend the hospitality of our home to relatives or friends in needy circumstances, we expect them to adapt themselves to the customs of the house. Similarly, it is up to the refugees to conform themselves to the peaceful conditions which prevailed before their admission to the Western Area. It is unthinkable that, on the contrary, the ratepayers should be compelled to adapt themselves to the manners of these refugees.

Taxpayers have a right to demand that the authorities take immediate and effective steps to protect the residential sections of the city from deterioration. They cannot be expected to put up with all sorts of discomforts caused by noise, smoke and smell not to speak of danger to their health while the police remain inactive.

I heartily support the suggestion made by MR. HARRIS concerning an arrangement to be reached with the public utility companies, not to supply water, light and power to factories or buildings which are, or are likely to be, a nuisance to nearby residents.

I would further suggest that curfew be re-established and strictly enforced by the police. I am confident that the majority of the residents of the Western Area would welcome such steps with considerable relief.

ACTION.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF DECEMBER 1, 1878

The Caledonian Ball:—The members of the St. Andrew's Society of Shanghai are to be congratulated on the success of their experiment in giving a ball instead of the time-worn, if not used-up, dinner formerly provided in celebration of the feastday of the national saint. We believe that although such a gratifying degree of success was achieved on Friday night last, there is not wanting a slight divergence of opinion as to the propriety of continuing the Ball in future years, or to revert to the pleasures of the table alone. It is to be hoped for various reasons that the disciples of Terpsichore and the Muses will prevail, and cause the discontents to retire with good grace and the utmost cordiality. We believe this will be done, for the vivacity and unanimity shown by all present in the endeavour to promote the general enjoyment on St. Andrew's Eve just passed, may be taken as in earnest of how longingly the Ball in future years will be looked forward to as the anniversary of the Northern Saint approaches. No pains had been spared on the occasion under notice to deserve the success, which, as we have just said, was so fully achieved. The great feature of the evening were the Scotch dances, and the interest of these, both to participants and spectators was much enhanced by the presence of Pipe-Major H. Hall, of the 7th Highlanders, now stationed at Hongkong, who, by permission of the Colonel and officers, was present in full regimentals, and played the music to the strathspeys and reels with a melodious softness at times, that, under similar circumstances would be quite sufficient to dispel the prevailing idea that the Scotch bagpipes are objectionable in a room. It may be said that such a pleasurable spectacle of intense enjoyment as this dance presented has seldom or ever before been witnessed within the walls of the Shanghai Club. The spectators could not refrain from awarding the loudest tokens of approval at the termination of the dance.

43 Arabs Killed in Fierce Battle

Hand-to-Hand Fighting South of Haifa

Jerusalem, Nov. 30.

Forty-three uniformed Arabs were known to have been killed in the battle south of Haifa yesterday, which was described as the fiercest in the present Palestine campaign.

A large band of Arabs, who were cornered, discarded their rifles and charged with drawn swords. Desperate hand-to-hand fighting ensued and very few Arabs escaped.

Two British soldiers were killed, and one officer and six other soldiers wounded in the battle.—Reuter.

Physicians' Roles In the Cinema

Socialized Medicine in "The Citadel"; Films Based On Mythological Lore

The first physician in the history of motion pictures to advocate socialized medicine will be seen in the person of Dr. Manson, principal character in A. J. Cronin's story "The Citadel." And since Dr. Manson represents the loftiest medical ideals ever attributed to a screen hero, it might be interesting to take a backward glance at a few of the various doctors who have preceded him on the screen, on the stage and in the novel. Of these there have been hundreds, some good, some bad—specialists, routine practitioners and quacks.

One of the earliest characters to win popularity in the doctor's role belonged to medieval folklore. His name was John Faustus. He made his appearance during the Reformation, when chemistry was a new science, and he was considered to be in league with the Evil One. In 1587 Christopher Marlowe made this same character the tumultuous hero of his play "Dr. Faustus" and imbued him with a nascent spirit of reform that led him to rebel against the confines of science. About 1775 Goethe, going to folklore for his source material, wrote "Faust," greatly ennobling the doctor protagonist and making him a symbol of struggle and hope.

The hero-villain propensities of Marlowe's "Dr. Faustus" were utilized by Robert Louis Stevenson in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," produced in 1920 as a silent movie (and in 1932 as a talkie). From this point on villainy in doctors grew exceedingly popular, specially in pictures like "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," "Doctor X," "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" and the "Dr. Fu Manchu" series.

Ramifications in the character of the physician are as numerous as they are interesting. Balzac makes Dr. Benassis, in "The Country Doctor," beneficent and kindly and something of a progenitor of Dr. Manson in "The Citadel." Baudelaire makes the doctor an unconscious amorist who attracts women with his white apparel and scalpel. Proust makes Dr. Cottard in "Swann's Way" a medical bounder.

Development of Realism

With the development of realism physicians talk specifically of research, formulas and laboratory methods. Emile Zola's "Doctor Pascal" is a specialist in heredity. Ibsen's doctor in "A Doll's House" is a symbol of disease and disintegration. Flaubert's doctor in "Madame Bovary" presents the first photographic description of suicide. George Bernard Shaw's doctor in "The Devil's Disciple" was a reformer. One of the most lovable doctors of the 90's was Dr. Lavender in Margaret Deland's "The Awakening of Helena Richie."

The screen has kept pace with medical development and reform. The larger aspects of medicine were presented in "Pasteur," a dramatic study of microbe discovery, and in "Yellow Jack," which treated the particular pursuit of the yellow fever germ. The forthcoming picture, "Triumph Over Pain," by René Fulop-Miller, discusses the discovery of anesthesia and its use.

The screen has shown also the doctor's professional, economic and ethical problems in pictures like "Arrowsmith," "Dr. Monica," "Main Street" and "Of Human Bondage," and the responsibilities of the interne in "Men in White" and "Young Dr. Kildare."

Casanova Ballroom

The new ballroom team at the Casanova, Nick and Nora, is stated to be proving very successful and to be a strong drawing-card. Both members of the team are well known here, this being specially true of the male member, Nick Kniazeff, formerly of the Kniazeff Duo. Apollo's Gaucho band provides the inspiration for dancing. The Casanova is open all night.

"Three Comrades"

Franchot Tone, Robert Taylor and Robert Young (above) with Margaret Sullivan will be starred at the Nanking soon.

"Prison Break"

Joaquin Shannon	Barton MacLane

Soapy	Paul Hurst
Maria	Constance Moore
Red Kincaid	Ward Bond
Joe Fenderson	Edward Pawley
Chris	Edmund MacDonald
Jackie	John Russell
Cappy	Frank Darian
Fenderson	Victor Killian

With a plot below the average, the excellent acting abilities of Mr. Baron MacLane, Miss Glenda Farrell and Mr. Paul Hurst did not come to the fore in "Prison Break" which opened at the Metropol Theatre yesterday. The story deals with the innocent conviction of a deep-sea fisher (Mr. MacLane), who silently goes to the big house for his brother-in-law whom he actually believes guilty of murder but who is not. After the usual prison-break scenes which are known to the audience from such big successes as "The Big House" and "Over The Wall," the hero eventually catches the bad man, this time with a ship back-ground and returns to his home and happiness, with a clean slate, and the audience always knowing minutes in advance what is about to happen next. A "Stranger Than Fiction" short, a cartoon and a newsreel, round out a programme that, judging by the number of spectators, does not seem to have lost its appeal. —S.M.K.

"You're Only Young Once"

Judge Hardy	Lewis Stone

Frank Redmond	Frank Craven

"Jerry" Lane	Eleanor Lynn
Billy Rand	Ted Pearson

Captain Swenson	Charles Judels
Hoyt Wells	Selmer Jackson

There must have been many members of yesterday's audiences at the Nanking Theatre, both young and old, whose minds were transported back to the days of early holidays around the sea coasts of their native shores, to the first intense excitement which prevailed as they stepped foot on new soil for a brief spell of freedom and to those happy days and nights which flitted by all too quickly as the time came to return once more to the old homestead and the equally old neighbours. All these emotions are recaptured in "You're Only Young Once," which had its first performances yesterday. Dealing with the life of the family of a small American town judge who goes on holiday for the first time for eleven years, the picture proved to be a welcome change from the sophisticated screen productions which are only too common these days, and it has portrayed the reactions of the whole family—father, mother, aunt, son and a daughter—as they breathed in the beautiful ozone and delved into pleasures not known in the little town back home. To see young Mickey Rooney in the throes of calf love was one of the most pleasant interludes in an amusing picture, and to see Mr. Lewis Stone in his portrayal of the kindly judge, and even more kindlier father, attempting to save his children from becoming serious over those holiday flirtations, clearly proved that in this realm he stands out among Hollywood's best. "You're Only Young Once" is a film which is definitely in a class above most of the pictures which Shanghai audiences are privileged to see.—R.S.

"Secrets of An Actress"

Fay Carter	Kay Francis
Dick Orr	George Brent
Peter Snowden	Ian Hunter
Carla Orr	Gloria Dickson
Marian Plantagenet	Isabel Jeans
Miss Reid	Penny Singleton
Miss Blackstone	Dennie Moore
Thompson	Selmer Jackson
Harrison	Herbert Rawlinson
Spencer	Emmet Vogan
Carstairs	James B. Carson

An imposing array of acting ability goes to work on a trite little story in "Secrets of an Actress" which opened yesterday at the Cathay Theatre. The romantic triangle consists of angles which have proved saleable in innumerable previous productions. Two good men want one good woman. Since one good woman can only have one good man, the other must be disposed of in some manner. Since he is a good man his exit must be gallantly self-sacrificing whether it involves death or not. And so it goes in this picture with each of the three principals, Kay Francis, George Brent, and Ian Hunter, following the formula with admirable acting ability. Particularly praise-worthy is Ian Hunter, who is probably Hollywood's outstanding third point on the triangle. He has been disposed of more often and more gallantly in more pictures than any other current actor and seems to be improving with experience. The direction is excellent, the most being made of all scenes while there are no lagging moments. Tuneful musicals proved entertaining before the main picture.—R.B.R.

Carnival Nights

Every Saturday and Sunday night, until further notice, will be Carnival Nights at the Majestic Cafe and Ballroom. These week-end carnival nights were tried out not long ago and were so successful that they were repeated several times. At the request of patrons they have now been made a regular week-end feature. On these occasions all patrons are supplied with paper hats, noise-makers, souvenirs and toys. The Majestic is open until 2 a.m. and until 4 a.m. on Saturdays. Service men are welcome.

Paramount Re-opening

The Paramount Ballroom will re-open today with everything in preparation for the Christmas season. A new bar has been installed in the balcony which will be known in future as the Blue Danube. In addition to the glass dance floor, another one has been built upstairs facing the Bar, in order to provide a more secluded spot for those dancers who would like to be away from the crowd. Another innovation at the bar will be a pianist and a drummer, playing the same music as the band downstairs in perfect rhythm but bringing to those above the beat and tune.

Charming barmaids are being chosen for the Blue Danube Bar, according to the management, who wish to make this spot popular among customers. Decorations over the entire ballroom are being renovated and changed, and all the furniture is being re-upholstered in different colours to match the change on decorations.

The band, with an extra piano continues under the able direction of Gloria Andico and new numbers are being rehearsed. A special floor show with Don and Dolly will be a nightly feature.

Hegamin Trio

At D.D.'s on Avenue Joffre, premier of a trio bearing the same name, Hegamin, at the piano, supported by two other musicians, provides classical music during dinner and toe-tickling melodies for dancing. The skilled interpretation of these musicians, coupled with service and cuisine, make for several hours of pleasurable relaxation.

"Borgia's Garter"

What the promoters assert will be one of their outstanding efforts of the season is the Russian Light Opera presentation in the Lyceum Theatre tonight of "Borgia's Garter," in which the majority of the large troupe will participate.

In the leading roles are Bitner, Valin and Kudinoff, with Mouraviev, a light comedian from the north, in strong support. Among the others may be noted Vargina, Galdaroff, Nevskaya, Tomsky, Wiener, D'Oder, Bodrostin, Sablinsky and Vasilieva. Intrigue and counter-intrigue, relieved with comical interludes, promise much for this production.

Manjelei and Seroff will interpret Liszet's Second Rhapsodie supported by the ballet, in the second act. Sloutsky, as usual, will direct the orchestra.

French Club Dance

Again last Saturday one of the largest crowds of the season patronized the dinner dance held in the French Club ball room, demonstrating the enormous popularity which these dances have attained with members and their friends.

The floor-show arranged for Saturday evening next is as follows:—

"Pagoda" .....Astor Trio
"Czardas Monti"
Buckmayer and Shevlugin
"Gipsy Dance" .....Al Petro
"Acrobatique" .....Astor Trio
"Paso Doble"
Buckmayer and Shevlugin

Many large parties have already been booked, and in addition it is expected that all those who are taking part in the badminton tournament will afterwards be present at the dance.

Celestial Chus

The Celestial Chus, five in number, including three young and pretty girls, will open an engagement tomorrow night at the Ambassador Ballroom and will present three numbers nightly. The Chus, it is stated, are acrobats and jugglers of an exceptionally high order and have just recently returned to China following a tour of Australia, Europe and parts of the United States. They were four months in New York City alone and seven weeks in Chicago. Their press records reveal that they appeared at some of the finest theatres on the Continent and in America. The youngest member of the troupe is a lad of five years.

Winter Garden Show

The entire floor-show at the Winter Garden will be changed tomorrow night, it is announced by Jimmy James. Under the new policy of the management six floor numbers are presented each night, the first and most important being Volsky's Midnight Revue, which takes the floor promptly at 11 o'clock. Tod Sanborn with his marimba will be seen and heard in a speciality number. Other artistes on the new programme will include Nina, Helena, Claire, the Dani Sisters and Tania and Irene. Tonight's special dish will be chop suey. Barbecued chicken dinners are served every Sunday and Wednesday and barbecued steak dinners every night. On Sunday there will be a tea dance with entertainment.

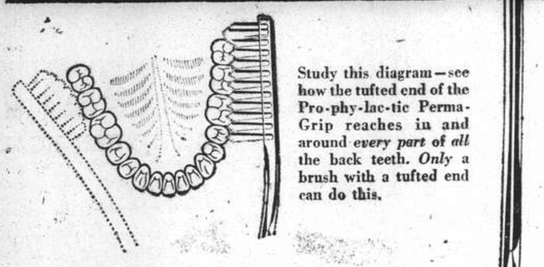
CLEAN AND PROTECT ALL YOUR TEETH

the Pro-phy-lac-tic Perma-Grip thoroughly cleans back teeth as well as front teeth



Study this diagram—see how the tufted end of the Pro-phy-lac-tic Perma-Grip reaches in and around every part of all the back teeth. Only a brush with a tufted end can do this.

Back Teeth Decay First

It is a fact that in 8 out of 10 cases, back teeth decay first. Why? Because the ordinary tooth brush does not reach and clean the back teeth. That is the reason for the big end-tuft of the Pro-phy-lac-tic Perma-Grip. It reaches the hard-to-get-at back teeth, removes every tiny food particle—cleans thoroughly, protects against decay—as no other brush can.

Pro-phy-lac-tic Perma-Grip is the only tooth brush with the exclusive Perma-Grip method of sealing the bristles in the handle firmly, securely. Insist upon genuine Pro-phy-lac-tic Perma-Grip. Look for the hyphenated name.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

THE YOUNG CRIMINAL

In the early part of last month a young father was sentenced to imprisonment for cruelty to his child of only a few months old. The baby had annoyed him by crying continuously, and he had severely beaten it about the face. His wife stated that this was not the first time that he had mistreated the child, and that she had determined the father should never see it again. Incidentally she mentioned that, when he married her, she did not know that he had been whipped with the cat-o'-nine-tails, and it was only when she saw the scars on his back that she obtained the facts from him. He had been thrashed for robbery with violence. The case does nothing to settle the old controversy as to whether whipping criminals brutalizes them, for those who hold the contrary view will point out that the man must have been a brute to commit the crime for which he received the punishment, though there may be something to be said for the argument that, perhaps in his case, the treatment accorded him increased his depravity to such an extent as to make it possible to ill-treat his small child. The incident is quoted in connection with the second reading of the Criminal Justice Bill which has been proposed by Sir Samuel Hoare, Home Secretary, in the House of Commons, for in this proposed enactment new methods have been devised to deal with criminals, especially the younger ones. The text of the Bill is not yet to hand, but Sir Samuel's speech as reported by Reuter gives sufficient indication of the new, and very liberal lines upon which it is sought to deal with the young offender. It is proposed to establish compulsory attendance centres to which the young can be sent for a limited number of hours—the maximum being sixty over a period of six months—and at which they would be ordered to attend for a given number of hours a day, the number never to exceed three. The idea being that those so sentenced would be ordered to attend the centres on Saturday afternoons or evenings, that they be deprived of leisure, and of such fun as attending football matches or the cinema, and to make them look rather ridiculous among their friends.

Obviously it is a measure designed to bring into play the curative values of punishment, and to avoid making young offenders into hardened criminals, and it would indeed be rash to suggest that there is not good reason for the introduction of such a measure. Whether in operation it will prove as successful as its sponsors hope remains to be seen, but the experiment is worth trying, and it will be watched with interest. On the face of it the scheme follows the minor school punishment of being "kept in" after hours and so long as the guilty one is reasonably close to school age it may have something of a deterrent effect, though that is entirely dependent upon the recalcitrancy of the subject. An offender sentenced to the maximum would in fact be "kept in" two-and-a-half hours a week for six months and if taken on a Saturday afternoon might certainly deprive him of his football matches. He would not necessarily miss his cinemas for they would be available on every night of the week including Saturday, though that might be cured by an order banning him from such amusement. Whether this would earn for him the ridicule of his fellows is doubtful, for those who are able to throw their memory back will remember that the perversity of the immature mind clothes the young malefactor with a kind of glory, which, however spurious it may appear to elders, is for the time being a reality to youth. There is a wrong-headed loyalty amongst the young to their fellows, and the danger is that even if a friend is made to look ridiculous he will receive more in the nature of misplaced sympathy than anything else. He may feel somewhat ludicrous for a while but the admiration of his fellows may very well act in his mind as an offset. That is where the danger of the experiment lies. Older people are so apt to forget what it was to be young, and all the clever devices of maturity may fail against those qualities or lack of them which are occasionally overlooked.

That the rigid application of the lex talionis may have the effect of brutalizing criminals who ought to be given a chance of reform is generally recognized today, but it is still difficult to see what can possibly take its place as a punishment for certain crimes. It can only be a matter of speculation as to whether the young father would have been a better man had he not been whipped for his original offence, and consequently only a guess as to whether the child would have escaped the brutality to which it was subjected had its father's earlier history been different. In all probability if it had been possible to apply milder punishments to earlier delinquencies the corrective might have had a beneficial effect, but much more information will be needed on the subject before a decision can be properly reached concerning the effectiveness of corporal punishment in certain cases which in English law are by now very well defined. The proposed experiment will be watched by criminologists with the closest of attention. It is apparent that despite the huge strides which have been made in the treatment of the criminal there is still much room for improvement, and if criminals can be transformed into law-abiding members of the community by such means as those suggested in this Bill, then the sooner the application of the basic principle is extended the better it may prove to be all round. Unfortunately in the matter of reform in the treatment of delinquents progress has to be made slowly. A great deal depends upon the people who are to be in charge of the administration of such punishments. They will be required to have a great amount of insight into human nature, and more particularly that sort of humanity which is most prone to crime. It may very well prove that such a system as that proposed may have in it the seeds of a remarkably fine development, but the danger in continually mitigating the punishment to be meted out to the young criminal is that a point may be reached where the sanctions of the law are unable to command for it the respect which it should have. That is no reason why the Government's scheme should not be tried out, for the more the administration of justice is made reformative instead of punitive the better it will be for all concerned.

Police Efficiency

On November 22 there was published in the correspondence columns of the "North-China Daily News" a letter describing the operation of a motor car racket at the corner of Honan and Tientsin Roads. Yesterday this journal was officially informed by the police that they had taken steps which it was hoped would put an end to this irregularity, and they would be obliged if the correspondent would report anything which suggested that it was being revived. It is more than a little gratifying to be able to place such a fact on record, for it proves that, unlike what appears to be the practice of other departments, the police are continually on the watch, in the local newspapers and out, for cases in which they can successfully intervene in the interests of law and order, and indicates a readiness to accept information from readers. This is all the more satisfactory when it is realized that the peculiarity of the conditions prevailing in Shanghai for nearly a year and a half has thrown a much heavier burden upon the police than would normally be the case, and the fact that men were detailed to inquire into this matter, which when all is said and done is trivial compared with some of the problems with which the police are preoccupied, is indicative of a readiness on their part to co-operate with the public which is altogether praiseworthy. Despite the fact that in the past the police have been subjected to considerable criticism, which has not been without its political angle, their record is an exceptionally good one, as the almost daily reports of how they are efficiently handling the crime situation must demonstrate to newspaper readers. That they were able to deal with so comparatively small a matter, and express readiness to do more if necessary justifies the confidence which is placed in the police, and redounds very greatly to the credit of all ranks.

Singapore and Rickshaws

Singapore's experiences form an interesting chapter in the rickshaw problem which Shanghai is periodically called upon to remedy. Although the rickshaw industry is not so firmly and widely established in Singapore, it is an important transportation medium but for more than a month a strike of pullers has been in existence and there have been no public rickshaws on the streets. The cause of the strike is the high charges exacted by the rickshaw owners for the hire of the vehicles and as the Singapore Government has not been impressed by the necessity for intervening or deemed the question sufficiently important to take the broad action of the Shanghai Municipal Council, the pullers took matters in their own hands and stopped working. Inconvenience has been caused to the public and trouble to the police but there seems to have been no real impediment in the withdrawal of this form so popular in Shanghai. Possessed of wider powers than the Shanghai authorities, Singapore has repatriated nearly 1,000 pullers, sending them back to Amoy passage free and with three Straits dollars each for expenses. It must be admitted that the small part rickshaws play in the city's public transportation makes the problem relatively easy to handle for the Municipal Commissioners have progressively decreased the number of vehicles to a maximum of 3,750 and a year hence it will be further reduced to 3,000. The guiding factor is the development of other forms of transport, especially motor transport, which is displacing man-hauled vehicles irrespective of the humanitarian factor jarring so unpleasantly with the economic aspect in Shanghai. The whole tendency of sentiment in Singapore is directed against the continuance of this industry—if it may so be called—and the strike may provide the opportunity for disposing of it. There are forces of national pride which reveal themselves with startling efficiency among the Chinese. One writer points out that there are no rickshaws in the Netherlands East Indies although there is a large Chinese population. They were introduced in Batavia with the consent of the authorities but did not last more than a few days for, according to the writer, the Chinese community got together and decided it was against the prestige of the race that Chinese should be seen in the streets working like beasts of burden. The men were offered jobs at higher wages and the rickshaw experiment collapsed.

Britain's Wind Tunnel

The largest private wind tunnel in existence is one of the principal features of the Fairey Aviation Company's magnificently equipped laboratories, recently opened by Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary of State for Air. This wind tunnel is the outcome of a policy under which the aircraft manufacturers will themselves do as much research work as possible, in order to save the time and expense of sending models to the Government research centres. Messrs Fairey's research workers will now be able to test unusually large aeroplane models and apparatus in a jet of air twelve feet wide and ten feet high, moving at a speed of 145 miles an hour. The tunnel itself is an extensive structure of wood and steel 110 feet long, 50 feet wide and 27 feet high, the power which is needed to attain maximum windspeed being provided by a 350 horsepower motor driving a fan 14 feet in diameter. The firm has taken the opportunity to group all its research facilities in one building. Equipment in all its laboratories is unusually complete; in the mechanical testing section are to be found machines for tensile, compressive bending fatigue, vibrational and impact testing, and among additional apparatus is a particularly ingenious machine for detecting flaws in materials. The metallurgists and chemists have at their disposal the best apparatus that money can buy, including a microscope which will magnify an object 2,000 times. It is encouraging to reflect that, although at present aeronautical research is devoted to the perfection of the most lethal weapon of war yet devised, it is laying up a store of scientific knowledge which transcends international boundaries and may eventually prove to be one of the most fruitful heritages of mankind.

Terrific

A DOCTOR and a clergyman of the same name lived in the same road. Just as the doctor got a post in Africa, the clergyman died. On reaching his destination, the doctor sent a cable to his wife, but it was delivered to the clergyman's widow in mistake.

The cable read as follows: "Arrived safely. Heat terrific."

Very Strong

HE had been out for a day's fishing, and in the evening he came home and proudly gave his wife a large fish.

"How's that for a catch?" he asked.

His wife sniffed suspiciously.

"Are you sure you really caught it, Jim?" she asked. "It smells very strong, you know."

"I'll say it's strong—it nearly pulled me into the river."

At Home

HE was most incredibly drunk, and the constable was finding it hard work to get him to the police station. It was actually only a few hundred yards, but to the arm of the law it seemed miles. Several times the inebriate fell down flat, dragging his captor with him.

At last, breathless, covered with mud, the constable managed to drag his captive up the steps of the station. As they lurched through the door, the drunk muttered: "Thanksh, ole chap! Get me inshide—quick—before the copsh shee me!"

Not Speakin'

THE house was very quiet one Sunday afternoon, when suddenly the silence was shattered by the sound of a disturbance from the kitchen. A terrific altercation was going on, and much bumping and banging.

The mistress of the house hurried down to investigate and reached the kitchen just as the angry voices rose to a screaming pitch.

"What on earth is all this commotion about?" she demanded.

"If you please, mum," replied the housemaid, picking herself up from the floor, "me and cook's not speakin'."

Odd Honeymoon

THE rather elderly couple, who had been courting for many, many years, decided to get married.

The prospective bridegroom accordingly went along to the vicar.

"Well, John," beamed the vicar, "Im' so glad to hear that after all these years you and Betsy are to be married. Where and how are you thinking of spending the honeymoon, may I ask?"

"Well, zur," replied John, smiling shyly, "us thought it would be a bit of a change like if, after us got wed, we each went our different ways for a week or so."

Well, Well, Well

"PRESBYTERIAN Crossings" was the description given to pedestrian crossings by a witness recently.

Nonconformist crossings would surely be more appropriate.

Grimsby Highways Committee were pondering the question of whether or not permission should be granted to a local brewery company to carry a pipe-line over a certain street in the town to convey beer from one portion of their premises to another.

Suddenly a voice piped up, hopefully: "Will the pipe leak?"

A motorist on a parking charge in a Glasgow local court told the bench: "I was summoned to this court for nine o'clock this morning," he said; "my car has been standing outside for 35 mins. Is that longer than is reasonably necessary?" The court did not answer his query and a fine of half a guinea was imposed for his original offence.

At last it has happened at Newport, the place once regarded as a danger spot for motorists. Three cyclists, who were riding abreast and took no notice of a motorist's persistent horn blowing, were fined at the local court for preventing the free passage on the highway.

General Strike Fails Throughout France

Socialist and Trade Union Protest Action Against Decree Laws Prove Ineffectual in Face of Resolute Government Precautions

Paris, Nov. 30.

MINOR incidents were reported in Paris today as a result of the French general strike, called by the C.G.T., as a protest against the National Defence decree laws enforcing overtime. Two bus depots were occupied for five minutes by workers, who resumed their duties after representations were made by the mobile guards, who were similarly successful with groups of employees of the under-ground stations who decided to use obstructionist tactics.

Dock workers arrived at the Marseilles docks for work but movement on the Bordeaux docks was hindered by the strike. On the whole, however, the general strike gave every indication of being a failure. Telephone services were normal, mails were apparently being delivered early this morning as usual, cafes and other shops gradually began to open, and milkmen started on their rounds.

A certain number of troops were placed at various points throughout Paris, particularly at stations but although maintaining contact, they kept well in the background. Mobile Guards were especially strong at bus depots and important underground station entrances.

Only four Paris newspapers, with a reduced number of pages, came out this morning, but more are expected to appear during the day.

Trains Run as Usual

Early this morning trains were running as usual in three of the principal Paris railway stations, including the Gare du Nord and Gare de l'Est.

At Porte Clignancourt soldiers stood with fixed bayonets.

Buses took the usual early workers into the business section. Heads of services estimated that sixty per cent. of the buses should be running in the morning.

Taxis were fairly numerous, although most were driven by owners.

Street cleaning services functioned as usual and, apart from an exceptional number of police in twos and threes and small groups of Mobile Guards at street corners or riding on lorries, Paris presented an almost normal appearance.

500 People Arrested

Almost 500 arrests were made in Paris today in connection with the general strike, according to an official announcement. Eighty of these were on charges of attempting to impede work.

In the afternoon there were serious street clashes between strikers and the Gardes Mobile in Lille and Toulouse. Many arrests were made in Lille, and several of the Gardes Mobile were injured.

Reports received from all parts of the country by Reuters reveal that the strike call was answered mostly by workers in the iron and steel trades, where the strike started, and least in public utilities.

Assent was given in the following percentages: railways, one; road transport, ten; dockers and seamen, forty; coal, 45; iron and steel, 75; engineering, 40; shops and stores, one; civil service, ten; textiles, thirty; banks, bourse and insurance, one newspapers, forty; food supplies three; electricity, gas and water, nil.

Clash Begins in Lille

Trouble in Lille began when several hundred strikers outside the Labour Exchange stopped tramcars, removed the drivers, and forced the passengers to alight. The strikers then smashed the windows in the cars until troops and Gardes Mobiles cordoned off the area and engaged the strikers, making many arrests. A number of the Gardes were injured in the fighting.

At Toulouse iron and steel worker pickets attempted to close the doors of big department stores. They were helped by a crowd of 2,000, who alternately sang the Marseillaise and the Internationale, when fighting broke out, and reinforcements of the Gardes Mobiles were called up. The doors of the stores were closed, but the staffs remained inside.

The Michelin Tyre Works at Clermond were requisitioned by the Government, after thousands of workers arrived at the factory to find the gates locked, the management refusing to open them.

M. Daladier, the Premier, then telephoned to the plant, and read the requisition order.

M. Albert Sarraut, Minister of the Interior, announced that 495 arrests were made in Paris. M. Sarraut added, "All is going as well as possible, and there is no incident to report. Public services are working."

Premier Refutes Charges

M. Edouard Daladier, the Premier, in a statement yesterday afternoon, replied to charges that requisitioning was illegal. He declared that the Government had acted by virtue of Acts of Parliament of 1877 and 1935, by which requisitioning could be ordered by decree. Such a decree, he added had been issued by M. Leon Blum's first Socialist Government, in 1936, and had never been rescinded.

The Socialist group of Parliament have summoned all their Deputies to meet on Friday for a regular session of the Chamber.

This proceeding is without precedent, but there is nothing to prevent the Deputies from holding the session unless their entry is prevented.

The Socialist group have invited not only the Socialists and the Communists, but every Deputy, individually, to attend the Friday session.

No Legal Basis

Their action and discussions can only be academic, but it is, nevertheless, a spectacular demonstration.

The legal position is that the Premier, M. Daladier, must summon Parliament if he is requested to do so by two-thirds of the members.

The Socialists are obviously, not confident of obtaining the support of two thirds of the Deputies and, therefore, are making this gesture.

The Socialists have long been clamouring for the summoning of Parliament, but M. Daladier has remained non-committal and has declined to fix a date, although December 13 has been mentioned as probable.

M. Daladier does not wish to be hampered by Parliamentary debates until he has seen how the financial Decree Laws are working.

He must, however, summon Parliament before the end of the year for the Budget debate.—Reuter.

British Protest to Burgos Lodged

Greek Ship Seized in Palma Carrying Grain For H. M. Government

London, Nov. 30.

Mr. R. A. Butler, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated in the House of Commons yesterday that the British Government demanded, from General Francisco Franco, the immediate release of the two Greek steamers taken at Palma, on November 23 and November 26, for examination, while carrying Rumanian wheat purchased by the British Government.

He added that the Government took a serious view of the incident.

In its report on the bombing of Barcelona last Wednesday, the Commission for investigation of air bombardments in Spain, after describing the results of its enquiry, made at the request of the Spanish Republican Government, says that from evidence available and from previous investigations of the bombardment of Barcelona, they consider that there will be a loss of civilian life and property whenever an attack on the port area is made from high altitudes at an angle to the coast.

The report concludes: "In view of this, if such attacks on the port area are continued they must be regarded as tantamount to deliberate attacks on the civilian population as well—Wireless and Reuter.

British Steamer Aground

Valencia, Nov. 30.

After being pursued by Nationalist aeroplanes in the Mediterranean yesterday, the British steamer Toussika (1,828 tons) went aground near Sagunta. The Toussika is owned by the Mediterranean Steamship Company.—Reuter.

Belgium Will Now Leave Non-Intervention Body

Economic Interests in Spain to Be Aided

Brussels, Nov. 30.

Belgium is to withdraw from the Non-Intervention Committee.

This announcement was made yesterday by M. Paul-Henri Spaak, the Prime Minister, who is also Minister for Foreign Affairs, in an address to the Senate.

The action was taken, he said, on the ground that Belgium's presence on the Committee was not effective, and that Belgium desired to safeguard her economic interests in Spain by entering into commercial negotiations with the Burgos Government.

The Senate approved the Government's Spanish policy by 88 votes to thirteen.

The minority consisted of Communists and Socialists. There were fifty abstentions, most of whom were Socialists.

In a subsequent interview, M. Spaak expressed the opinion that, before long, mediation in the Spanish conflict should be possible. He thought, however, that the offer to mediate should be made by a big Power, or group of Powers, and Belgium was ready to take part.—Reuter.

School of Oriental Studies

Gift of Collection of Books on Far East

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Nov. 30.

Mr. F. J. R. Bottrall, Assistant Director of the British Institute at Florence, has been appointed Secretary of the School for Oriental Studies at London University in succession to Mr. Rossetti, who has resigned.

Mr. Bottrall was formerly Johore Professor of English Language and Literature at Raffles College, Singapore.

The report of the governing body for the academic year 1937-38 announces the gift of a collection of books on China and the Far East, numbering some 16,000, by the executrix of the will of the late Sir Reginald Johnston, formerly Commissioner of Weihaiwei.

British Army's Strength Grows Steadily

Recruiting Rate Now Makes Up Deficiency; More Defence Funds

London, Nov. 30.

Deficiency in the regular British Army on November 1 was 21,574 officers and men, but if recruiting continued at the present rate the deficiency on the present establishment was likely to be under 20,000 at the end of next March, declared Mr. Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary of State for War, at question time in the House of Commons yesterday. There was, he added, almost double the number of recruits this year than last.

Defence Money Inadequate

In view of the further expenditure on defence now contemplated the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir John Simon, has decided that some increase in the limit of £400,000,000 authorized by the Defence Loans Act of 1936 for borrowing in connection with the re-armament programme will be necessary.

For some time the suggestion has been made in both parliamentary and financial circles that, with a view to allaying the anxiety on the party of industry and trade with regard to future incidence of the cost of re-armament, the Chancellor of the Exchequer should make some statement in anticipation of the budget and it was in reply to a Commons question on these lines that Sir John Simon announced today he had come to the conclusion that some further borrowing powers would be needed and it was his intention, at an appropriate time next year, to ask Parliament to pass legislation for this purpose.

New Borrowings Authorized

While emphasizing that it would be neither desirable nor practicable to depart from the rule prohibiting anticipation of estimates or provisions of the budget, the Chancellor said he recognized that the considerable increases in defence expenditure which had already been announced brought to the forefront the question of how they should be met.

The Act of 1936 had authorized borrowing up to £400,000,000 and by the end of the present financial year they would have met the cost of rearmament out of borrowed money to the extent of about £180,000,000.

Some £220,000,000 would therefore remain so that the problem of authority to borrow was not urgent but he thought that at a time when new commitments were being incurred they should prepare a plan in advance.

Sir John Simon added to his announcement that it would be impossible to mention figures in anticipation of the new bill but he had made the statement in order to remove uncertainty so far as he could.—Wireless and Reuter.

U.S. German Spy Trial Ends With Conviction

Jury Fails to Reach Verdict On Third Defendant

New York, Nov. 30.

The big "German spy trial," which began on October 14, ended today with the conviction of Otto Hermann Voss, former employee in the Seversky aircraft factory, and Johanna Hoffmann, former hairdresser in the liner Europa, on charges of conspiring to steal military secrets.

The jury, however, was unable to reach a verdict regarding the third defendant, Erich Glaser, a private in the United States Army Corps.

The accused were charged with having transmitted to Germany the secret Army code book for communication between aeroplanes and their bases, and various blueprints relating to the design and armament of Seversky pursuit planes on order for the United States Army.

Guenther Rumrich, twice deserter from the United States Army, who was arrested with the other three, pleaded guilty at the opening of the trial and then turned State evidence.—Reuter.

Reichsbank President Hopes For Free Currency

Dr. Schacht Desires End of Controlled Economy: Paris Comments on "Drang Nach Osten" Policy

Berlin, Nov. 30.

"SOON our creditors will be willing, along with us, to remove the consequences of war tributes, and the door will be open to multilateral trade and free international currency circulation," declared Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, addressing business and professional men here yesterday on the "new plan" by which Germany's huge rearmament programme was financed.

Showing how the 1934-1937 imports of finished products had been cut by 63 per cent., and imports of mineral ores, petroleum, grain and rubber had increased, in some cases, more than 100 per cent., Dr. Schacht said: "Those figures indicate how the new plan has contributed to the carrying out of rearmament and the making of our food supplies safe.

"As long as our shortage of foreign currency lasts, the control of foreign trade must remain. I do not know when we will be able to get rid of this, but I hope soon."—Reuter.

Paris Comments

Paris, Nov. 30.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's statement yesterday in connection with Germany's economic "new plan" was received with interest in French economic and business circles.

Recalling the recent trip made to Eastern Europe by Herr Walter Funk, Minister of Economy, informed quarters suggest that Dr. Schacht's declarations provide a further explanation of the Reich's economic "Drang Nach Osten." Germany, it is pointed out, is still faced with an urgent problem: she is poor in raw materials and poor in currency to purchase them from abroad.

Bases of Supply Sought

When Dr. Schacht said "Germany has no intention of letting foreign countries control her economic life he meant, it is thought, that Germany intends herself to organize the production of raw-materials on which she is compelled to fall back for her supplies. Another allusion was the German financier's reference to an "improvement in the Reich's bases of supply." Dr. Funk's recent voyage had no other aim than to prepare the ground for Germany's new economic policy. The first step is likely to be directed toward Czechoslovakia, a purely industrial country until now, who should, to meet the Reich's demands, develop her agriculture henceforth. In other parts of Central Europe, castor-oil plant will have to be cultivated instead of wheat. In exchange, Germany would guarantee to the producing countries that the necessary merchandise would be bought for a number of years at a fixed rate independent of the fluctuations of the world market.

No Currency Payments

However, Germany would not pay for her commercial debts in currency, but would supply an equivalent amount of finished products, or undertake the execution of engineering works in the creditor countries. Germany could thus obtain raw-materials beyond her own needs and resell them against currency. "Commercial credits" Dr. Schacht mentioned would not take the form of loans aimed at facilitating the purchase of German manufactured products abroad, but merely of extended credit facilities.

Although Germany's extensive plans appear to hide no political design, they have so far been received with marked coldness in Balkan and Danubian Europe, it is pointed out.—Havas.

Warships Allowed To Pass Yangtze

Qualified Permission By Japanese Given to Trips By Foreign Gunboats

Yangtze patrol war vessels of third party Powers, "bottled up" between Wuhu and Yochow since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities sixteen months ago may soon visit Shanghai.

Facilities for the passage of the seven French, British, and American gunboats from points up-river to Shanghai will be extended by the Japanese naval authorities should requests to that effect be made by the officials concerned, Japanese naval authorities in Shanghai revealed yesterday.

The Japanese willingness to permit such a movement was conveyed to the senior American, British, and French naval officers in Shanghai in a note addressed them by Vice-Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, commander-in-chief of the Japanese China Seas Fleet, on Tuesday, it was disclosed.

One round trip will be allowed each vessel, or if necessary, one down trip by one ship and one up-river journey by another of the same nationality will be sanctioned. Certain unrevealed conditions were understood to have been stipulated regarding the movements of those vessels.

British Penal Reforms to Attempt Assistance for Young Offenders

Commons Informed of Scope of New Criminal Justice Bill; Social Workers' Advice Taken

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Nov. 30.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Home Secretary, revealed more of his plans respecting penal reform, when he moved the second reading of the Criminal Justice Bill in the House of Commons yesterday.

The Bill improves methods of dealing with persons found guilty of offences and codifies and simplifies the Criminal Justice Law.

Dealing with young offenders, Sir Samuel Hoare said that he felt he must have effective means of dealing with them. Accordingly, in substitution for out-of-date methods, he was proposing compulsory attendance centres.

His proposal, he declared, was based on the view of experienced social workers that wise punishment should do good, and not harm, should not break the thread of youthful offenders' lives nor take them out of employment, if they were employed.

At the same time, the Home Secretary pointed out, the punishment must be unpleasant.

He proposed, therefore, compulsory attendance centres, to which the young could be sent for a limited number of hours—the maximum being 60 over a period of six months—and at which they would be ordered to attend for a given number of hours a day, the number never to exceed three.

The idea, Sir Samuel Hoare concluded, was that young offenders would be ordered to attend the centres on Saturday afternoons or evenings, that they would be deprived of leisure, that they would not have fun such as going to football matches or films, that they would be made to look rather ridiculous among their friends and that they would be given some kind of useful training.—Reuter.

Chinese Boy Artist Astonishes London

Critics Praise Work Of Painter Aged Eight Years

London, Nov. 30.

Plato Chen, eight-year-old Chinese artist, has astonished leading critics in London.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, Chinese Ambassador to Great Britain, opened an exhibition, in Bond Street, of Plato's drawings and paintings yesterday, at which the critics agreed that the young artist's work showed vigour, imagination and firmness of outline far beyond his years.

The child artist, who is the son of a member of the Chinese Diplomatic Corps, gave a display, at his exhibition, of his skill in drawing, which was very popular.

Among the favourite objects of his satire, as a caricaturist, were Herr Hitler, Signor Mussolini and Japanese generals.

The Chinese Ambassador said that "Plato Chan is not only an artist of high power, but also a good citizen of China, since all the proceeds of his exhibition are devoted to help China in her unparalleled and undeserved suffering."—Reuter.

Condor Plane Reaches Tokyo

Flight from Berlin Achieved in 46 Hours 18 Minutes; Remarkable Times in Four-Stop 14,600-Km. Journey

Tokyo, Nov. 30.

COMPLETING an epochal flight from Berlin to Tokyo over a 14,600-kilometre course in 46 hours and 18 minutes, the giant German Condor goodwill plane carrying five German airmen led by the veteran pilot, Captain Alfred Henke, landed in Tokyo at 10.10 o'clock tonight, Japan time. (In Shanghai the time was reported as received to be 10.10 and 52 seconds.)

The German fliers received an enthusiastic ovation from a vast crowd when they stepped from the air liner at the Tachikawa Military Aerodrome in a Tokyo suburb. Heading a welcoming delegation were Maj.-Gen. Eugen Ott, German Ambassador; Japanese Government officials and leading Japanese and German citizens of the capital.

Swooping down out of the darkness into the glare of searchlights, the the big plane made an excellent landing and taxied across a white line drawn on the aerodrome to mark the spot where the flight came to an end.

The elapsed time for the flight included brief periods required for three stops en route when the plane was refuelled and the airmen snatched short rests.

Aviation officials were studying records to determine whether a world's record for a three-stop flight over a similar distance had been broken.

The goodwill plane made unexpectedly fast time on its last two laps from Karachi, India, and Hanoi, Indo-China. It had been announced previously that the ship was not expected to arrive here until Thursday morning.

At 8 o'clock the plane was off Kagoshima, Kyushu flying at an altitude of 3,800 metres, according to a message received here at 8.50 o'clock. On receipt of the report Maj.-Gen. Ott and other officials started for the Tachikawa Aerodrome. Tokyo was agog with excitement when word spread that the plane was arriving.

Medals of merit will be awarded the fliers by the Imperial Aeronautical Society.

The Condor plane passed over Hongkong at 1 o'clock this afternoon, having arrived at Hanoi at 10.10 o'clock this morning (Tokyo time) or 8.10 a.m. Hanoi time, to take-off on the remaining course of 4,230 kilometres at 11.42 a.m. Tokyo time or 9.45 a.m Hanoi time. Communications between the plane and the Osaka Wireless Station were quickly established, according to a dispatch from Osaka.—Domei.

German Envoy's Speech

Tokyo, Nov. 30.

Making a statement for the occasion, the German Ambassador, Maj.-Gen. Eugen Ott said the entire German nation was proud of the flight which turned out to be another great success for German aviation.

"I take it as good omen for the future of German and Japanese collaboration and friendly relations between the anti-Comintern Powers," he continued, "that only a few days after the celebration of the second anniversary of the anti-Comintern Pact, a flight connecting our two capitals and peoples was performed in such convincing style."

Maj.-Gen. Ott expressed the hope that the Condor's flight would be a fore-runner for the establishment of a regular air service between Japan and Germany.

The Condor machine, which is the same as that which flew to New York and back to Berlin last August, sent a wireless message earlier in the day stating that she was proceeding direct to Tokyo and would not stop at Formosa, as planned.—Reuter.

Almost on Schedule

Berlin, Nov. 30.

The German Focke-Wulf Condor aeroplane which left the Tempelhof airport here on Monday afternoon reached Hanoi, French Indo-China, at 2.10 a.m. M.E.T. today. Refuelling was completed in just over 1½ hours. The plane was in the air again at 3.42 a.m. on the fourth and final 3,700-kilometre long stage of its flight to Japan.

Computing on the basis of the average speed maintained hitherto, the Condor was expected to arrive in Tokyo at 2 p.m. M.E.T. or 10 p.m. Japanese time today.

The plane left Karachi yesterday afternoon on the third stage of its flight, the stretch from Karachi to Hanoi being 4,200 kilometres long.—Trans-Ocean.

Briton Arrested on Chapoo Road Span

Mr. J. Dalton Detained for Over Five Hours; Made to Sign Japanese Statement

Mr. J. Dalton, British, head of the Shanghai Chemical Laboratory, Hardoon Building, was arrested by Japanese naval sentries on the Chapoo Road Bridge shortly before noon yesterday when he attempted to cross the span from south to north on routine business. He was held at various Japanese posts until about 5.30 p.m., and a Chinese assistant who was with him at the time of his arrest was likewise arrested and in addition badly beaten by the Japanese, it is alleged.

It was understood that Mr. Dalton, who goes to Hongkew almost daily, forgot that the Chapoo Road Bridge is not now open for ordinary motor traffic, when he tried to cross it. He, further, had with him a Chinese who was without a Japanese pass to go north of the Soochow Creek, but it is reported that he did not know that this man, who was taking the place of his regular assistant who is equipped with a pass, did not possess the necessary document.

Mr. Dalton, who was driving, had nearly reached the north side of the bridge when he was challenged. According to the Japanese, he was suspected of trying to "smuggle" an unauthorized Chinese into Hongkew, hence his arrest.

Not Allowed to 'Phone

While the details of what followed are not quite clear, it is definitely known that Mr. Dalton and his Chinese companion were taken first to a small station of the Japanese Landing Party near the Chapoo Road Bridge and then transferred to a larger post in Haining Road. Mr. Dalton was consistently denied the use of a telephone, and it is said that the Chinese with him was so badly beaten that one of his wrists was broken.

At the Haining Road station Mr. Dalton was at first allowed to sit outside a cell where his Chinese helper was placed with two Russian prisoners, it is reported. Subsequently, however, he was forced to go inside the same cell, and there he remained for two hours. As it was tiffin time, he had a desire for food and was allowed to buy packets of biscuits through a Japanese sentry. He divided these with his Chinese assistant and the two Russians, who seemed to be inordinately hungry.

Fortunately, Mr. Dalton, while on his way to the Haining Road depot, was spotted by a foreign detective from the Hongkew Police Station. This chance meeting resulted in an investigation being made by the Settlement Police, and the British Consulate-General being notified. An official of H.M. Consulate went to Haining Road, and Mr. Dalton was then transferred to the Japanese Landing Party Headquarters in Kiangwan Road. There he was treated courteously, but was induced to sign a statement which was, however, later somewhat amended. He was released, finally, at about 5.30 p.m.

The Chinese also was released, but his condition at the time was such that he had to be sent to hospital immediately.

The case is being investigated further by H. M. Consular authorities and the S.M. Police.

Shifts in the Foreign Office personnel in China were necessitated by the establishment of the Asia Development Board, the new central organ within the Cabinet which will have extensive jurisdiction over China affairs.—Domei.

Japanese Withdraw From Hongkong

Troops Moving Away From Colony Border; Reports of Friction Unfounded

Hongkong, Nov. 30.

It is authoritatively learned from Japanese sources that, "in a spirit of friendly co-operation," the Japanese troops, having completed their military operations on the Hongkong frontier, are now withdrawing to the north.

Independent observers have confirmed the fact that Japanese flags were removed from Shumchun at 5 o'clock this morning, and it is considered unlikely that there will be any further hostilities in this immediate area.—Reuter.

Local Settlement

London, Nov. 29.

The British Government have decided that the problem of the Japanese violation of Hongkong's borders should be settled by the authorities on the spot, it was stated in well informed quarters today.

They have given up all intentions of proceeding with further action from here, wishing to avoid giving excessive importance to what are purely local incidents, it was added.

The Government will take action, however, if the Hongkong authorities and the Japanese military command in South China fail to reach an agreement through direct negotiations, these quarters concluded.—Havas.

Friction Denied

Canton, Nov. 30.

No friction between Japanese and British troops on the border of British territory has occurred and no material damage was done to property in British territory, an official communiqué issued by the headquarters of the Japanese Expeditionary Force to South China stated yesterday.

This constituted an official denial by Japanese military authorities of reports that a controversy had taken place between British and Japanese troops during the mopping-up operations near the border.

The communiqué said that a small Japanese unit, while pursuing Chinese stragglers south of the East River on November 26, at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, was fired upon from a pillbox near the border between Chinese and British leased territory. The pillbox was attacked and occupied quickly but the Japanese unit was told by the British that the place where the pillbox stood was British territory, and accordingly the Japanese troops withdrew, the communiqué said. British and Japanese military officers held a conversation on the spot and the matter was settled amicably to the mutual satisfaction of both parties, the statement said —Domei.

Delay Over Envoy Resented

Credentials Not Presented By Mr. Chen Chieh Owing To Berlin's Inaction

Chungking, Nov. 30.

Chinese circles here are extremely indignant over the repeated "postponement" of the presentation of the credentials of the Chinese Ambassador in Berlin, Mr. Chen Chieh.

Although the Japanese, Manchoukuo and French envoys arrived in Berlin later than Mr. Chen, they point out, they have all already presented their credentials.

The New Szechuen "Daily News," in a leading article today, declares that "there is a limit to our patient efforts for maintaining cordial Sino-German relations."

The paper points out that relations between China and Germany have always been very friendly. In recent years, it adds, Sino-German economic and cultural relations have been especially close.

However, the journal proceeds, since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities, Germany, "wishing to strengthen her position with aggressor nations, has sacrificed her Chinese friendship in order to please Japan by

1. "Withdrawing her military advisers;
2. "Withdrawing her Ambassador from China, and
3. "Recognizing Manchoukuo."

In conclusion, the newspaper urges the "recall of the Chinese Ambassador in Berlin or the transfer of Mr. Chen Chieh elsewhere, as well as the withdrawal of the Chinese Embassy staff in Berlin, leaving the minimum staff to take care of routine affairs."—Reuter.

Tientsin Kidnappers to Be Suppressed

Mayor Forbids Payment of Ransom by Victims

Peiping, Nov. 30.

Firm in his determination to stamp out the kidnapping menace in Tientsin, Mr. Pan Yu-kuei, Mayor of Tientsin, has issued an order prohibiting the payment of ransom money.

The order says that it has been a habit of families involved in kidnapping cases to approach the kidnappers in attempts to arrive at a financial settlement. This practice has been the cause of the present kidnapping menace to Tientsin, it is declared.

Arguing that the payment of ransom money merely encourages the kidnappers to further wrong-doing and in no way helps to save the lives of the kidnapped, the order imposes a fine of $1,000 on those who fail to notify the police of any kidnapping cases and a fine five times the ransom money on those who settle a kidnapping case privately.—Reuter.

Police Sift Results of Big Gangster Drive

Watches Kept on Houses; Records Are Searched

Detectives of Shanghai Municipal Police Headquarters yesterday sifted the results of their elaborate drive against the Chinese gangster element of Shanghai, conducted the previous two days, at the same time maintaining watches on various houses known to have been frequented by terrorists and other armed criminals.

Up to Tuesday night, nearly ninety men and women had been arrested, and they were all being kept in custody yesterday while fingerprint and registry officials examined their possible police records. It is known already that a fair proportion of them have tangled with the law in the past.

An interesting sidelight on the war waged by the Municipal Police on Shanghai's particular criminal gentry is furnished by the October report of the force, which was issued yesterday. While, according to the report, the Reserve Unit (riot personnel) turned out only once to the scene of an armed robbery, the various stations conducted 787 search parties in the month along streets and alleyways, and made 249 inspections of hotels and lodging houses, mainly in the Louza district. There were 58 "standing parties" and 21 cordon searches, while the Reserve Unit responded to 52 so-called tip-and-run calls. Furthermore there was one military patrol and 46 S.V.C. patrols. Armoured patrols were nil.

Foreign Money Stolen From Ship "Changer"

Chinese Robbed After Visit to C.P.R. Liner

A Mr. Ching Ying-sung, who conducts a money changing business on board the big passenger ships that enter the port of Shanghai, was waylaid by armed robbers yesterday during the noon hour as he was returning to his residence at 58 Kiangse Road.

Mr. Ching had stepped off a tender from the ss. Empress of Canada at about 12.20 o'clock. He was carrying a small handbag containing $2,500 (Chinese currency), the money being actually mostly in yen, gold dollars and Hongkong dollars. As he mounted the steps of 58 Kiangse Road he felt a tug from behind, and the bag containing the money was snatched from his grasp. He turned round sharply, only to have a big military Mauser pistol pressed against his stomach.

The gunman had two accomplices, and all three escaped. No shots were fired.

Arrangements for the visit were made by Mr. H. L. No statement was issued by the association after the visit as to the present state of buildings on Point Island.

Two Chinese Perish as Five Houses Burn

Flames Cause Havoc in Yu Ya Ching Road

In the midst of a congested district, a fire created havoc yesterday evening near the intersection of Yu Ya Ching and Sinza Roads, and trapped two Chinese with fatal results. The charred bodies of the two victims were later found in the ruins.

The fire started at about 8.40 p.m., and caused five dwelling-houses to be gutted by the flames. Firemen from the Sinza Fire Station worked for about two hours to subdue the flames, while police kept back crowds of the curious gathering about the scene.

A check made at midnight failed to disclose whether others had been injured in the blaze.

Jessfield Road and Moji Road Scenes of Crimes

Five men looted a Chinese dwelling-house in Lane 1165, Jessfield Road (outside Settlement limits), and stole money and jewellery worth about $250.

Later in the evening, another gang of five robbed the occupants of a house in Sai Loh Li, Moji Road, and escaped with money, clothing and jewellery. The value of the plunder was estimated at some $450.

Mr. Eden Sees New Shocks Ahead

Moral Foreign Policy And Bigger Armaments Programme Suggested

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Nov. 30.

"Even if we avoid the calamity of a general war, we are likely to endure further shocks," said Mr. Anthony Eden, former Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a speech in London yesterday.

"This is not the moment to indulge in recriminations about the past," he continued. "We must look into the present and the future, and make any helpful suggestions possible to meet an emergency.

"We now live in conditions," Mr. Eden declared, "in which three powerful States have accepted the doctrine of force as the inspiration of their national policy.

"In this anarchic state we are forced to live dangerously under the constant threat of war, without a feeling of assurance that catastrophe will be avoided.

"No foreign policy, however well conceived, can alone solve the problem in the next year or two.

"The prospect, however, is by no means desperate. There are grave doubts whether our present rearmament effort is equal to the present need."

Mr. Eden outlined a three-fold programme—a foreign policy which would unite the nation, speedy and vigorous rearmament and to make Great Britain's faith in freedom and democracy a practical, living thing.

With steadfast determination to see such a programme through, Mr. Eden declared, "we can face the future with unshaken faith."

Regarding diplomacy, Mr. Eden insisted that "we must first make plain that we vigorously uphold definite standards of international good faith, and that we will not condone flagrant violations of them in an attempt to obtain some temporary alleviation.

"We will also stand by those to whom we have given our word, and we will act on parallel lines with those who are like-minded with us."—Reuter.

European Naval Race Looms

Soviets Reject British Request to Concentrate Escalation to Far East

London, Nov. 29.

The Soviets have rejected London's request that they should exceed the 35,000-ton limit in battleship construction only in the Far Eastern Fleet and that they should not apply escalation to the European Fleet.

Naval experts reporting this recalled that Britain and the United States invoked the Escalator Clause of the London Naval Treaty of 1936 some time ago when France also voiced her intention to build warships of larger than 35,000-tons displacement, if any other European nation exceeded that limit.

Soviet Russia then declared her determination to build mammoth war vessels for her Far Eastern Fleet, to meet the "threat" of a Japanese Fleet possessing ships of greater than 35,000 tons.

Russia's newly-asserted intention to apply the Escalator Clause to her European Fleet is regarded as a critical move since it is held likely to involve a naval race among the Continental Powers.

Italian, German Attitudes

Italy and Germany followed France's lead and agreed to stand by the London Treaty limits provided no other European Power exceeded them.

These three Powers will hardly be able to maintain their decisions if the Soviets build larger vessels. France will be obliged to "escalate" if Berlin follows Moscow's example.

Britain will inform the Reich of Soviet Russia's final decision in the matter in accordance with a special clause of the Anglo-German naval treaty dealing with the reciprocal communication of naval programmes.—Havas.

Democratic Trade Ideal Upheld

U.S. Envoy in Britain Lauds Anglo-American Commercial Agreement

London, Nov. 30.

For the second time in two days, Mr. Joseph Kennedy, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, referred yesterday to the Trade Agreement between Great Britain and America.

Speaking at a luncheon yesterday of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and the Manchester branch of the English Speaking Union, Mr. Kennedy said:

"It appears that the totalitarian countries, together with the areas now controlled by them, or likely to fall under their sway, account for about one-third of international trade.

"Great Britain, France, the United States, and other countries account for the rest.

"It will be seen, therefore, that, while the totalitarian regimes have made considerable headway with the regimentation of foreign trade, two-thirds of the international business of the world is still transacted on a reasonably free basis."

Continuing, Mr. Kennedy emphasized that "that fact should encourage us to hope that the type of commercial policy which we consider desirable will yet prevail."

He said that "we must do everything in our power to make the democratic system of trade work: we must make it so attractive that these nations, now committed to a different system, will join us in a great movement to restore to international commerce the flexibility it once enjoyed."—Reuter.

Manchoukuo Taking More Japanese

State-Sponsored Scheme For Settlements Begins

Tokyo, Nov. 30.

Sharply increasing Japanese emigration to Manchoukuo, 30,000 single men and 12,000 households, will leave for the continent during the 1939-40 fiscal year, the Ministry of Overseas Affairs revealed yesterday.

Appropriations to provide for the expenses of these emigrants were increased 50 per cent. over those for the current fiscal year to total Y.26,000,000. This was included in the budgetary estimate of the Overseas Ministry approved by the Ministry of Finance.

The creation of an Overseas Affairs Inquiry Council to study ways and means of opening new fields of occupation for emigrants as well as investigating further sources of funds for colonization work has been decided by the Overseas Ministry. This council will include university professors and leading agricultural experts.

Schools for "Farm Wives"

Prospective wives of Japanese farmers will be given an opportunity to receive pre-marital training under government auspices to equip them for conducting a farm home, according to plans announced today by the Ministry of Agriculture for the establishment of training schools in 35 localities.

The schools will open next April to train 2,000 farm girls between the ages of 16 to 19 years within a period of one to two months. No tuition will be charged and applicants will be accepted irrespective of their previous education.

Upon completion of the course, the girls will have the choice of being married to a farmer emigrating to Manchoukuo or to a young farmer taking over the work of a fellow-worker now serving on the China front.—Domei.

Japanese Plan More Schools in North

To Take Care of Children Residing in Area

Peiping, Nov. 30.

In order to accommodate the increasing number of Japanese children in this region the Japanese authorities are devising means to establish more primary schools in Paoting, Taiyuan, Shihchiachwang and other places.

According to figures released by the authorities concerned, there were formerly 31 primary schools in Paoting, Taiyuan and Shihchiachwang with a total student roll of 5,444, but this number has now been increased to 8,660.

The authorities are contemplating opening 24 new schools to accommodate the additional students. They are also paying attention to an expansion of the Japanese middle students in Tientsin and Tsingtao.—Reuter.

Eire-Ulster Border Bomb Incidents

London, Nov. 30.

Reports from Belfast say serious incidents took place last night on the frontier between Eire and Ulster when several Border Posts were blown up by powerful explosives. The outrages were carefully planned and the explosions took place almost simultaneously. Police prevented an attempt at Donegal.

The outrages are believed to be reprisals for the action of the Northern Irish Government in banning a political meeting in the district.—Havas.

Trade Recession in Britain Halts

London, Nov. 30.

The movement of economic retrogression in Great Britain has been halted, the Midland Bank "Monthly Review" revealed today.

British exporters consider prospects brighter this year than during the previous twelve months and though British exports to the Far East cannot be viewed optimistically, the gradual increase in exports to the United States will have happy repercussions upon British trade.—Havas.

Il Duce May Visit London

Sequel Expected to Call in January by British Ministers

Rome, Nov. 29.

Signor Benito Mussolini, the Italian Premier, and Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Italian Foreign Minister, are expected to pay a state visit to London after the British Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, and Lord Halifax, British Foreign Secretary, visit Rome in January, 1939, it was asserted in well-informed quarters here this evening. Politicians declared that such a trip has already been "contemplated."

M. Andre Francois-Poncet, the new French Ambassador, had a half-hour interview today with Signor Mussolini and his son-in-law, Count Ciano.

The substance of the conversations was not divulged but politicians here predicted tonight that the Italian Government would shortly raise the problem of the status of Italian residents in Tunis.

This question was settled by the Laval-Mussolini Accords of January, 1935, but the Italian Government consider these accords now obsolete and believe that they should be revised, it is declared.—Havas.

Italian Praises for Britain

Rome, Nov. 30.

Praise is accorded the forthcoming visit to Italy of Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the British Prime Minister, by Signor Virginio Gayda, editor of "Giornale d'Italia" who is sometimes referred to as "Signor Mussolini's mouthpiece." and who, in the past, has been a severe critic of Great Britain.

Signor Gayda says that "Mr. Chamberlain's journey forms part of the frank, realistic action, which the British foreign policy has adopted since it was taken over by the firm control of the Prime Minister.

"This action," he continues, "will allow the collaboration of Italy and Great Britain for peace and the permanent clarification of European relations."

Signor Gayda adds that, although part of the hopes aroused in Munich have already been dashed to the ground, "one does not wish to despair yet, but it is necessary to act with speed and understanding."—Reuter.

Baby Adopted By H.M.S. Sandpiper Does Well

Escapes Changsha Fire; Has Foreign Nurse

Chungking, Nov. 30.

The Chinese baby girl adopted by the crew of the British gunboat Sandpiper at Changsha, with Sir Archibald Kerr, the British Ambassador, as godfather and Madame Chiang Kai-shek as godmother, escaped from the recent disastrous Changsha fire and is doing well, according to the latest information reaching here from the Hunan capital.

The girl was floating in the Yangtze, after a Chinese steamer near by had been bombed and set on fire by Japanese planes, when she was rescued by sailors of the Sandpiper.

A special foreign nurse is taking care of the baby, which was taken to the Yale-in-China Hospital during the fire, when hundreds were burned to death.—Reuter.

Special Anglo-French Staff Talks Denied

No Commercial Parleys During Paris Visit

London, Nov. 30.

No special conversations between the British and French General Staffs would take place as a result of the Paris talks, stated Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, in the House of Commons yesterday.

The conferences, however, which had been previously decided upon between the General Staffs, he added, would continue as arranged.

It was stated in the House of Commons that in the conversations with the French Ministers in Paris, the negotiation of a new commercial arrangement between France and the United Kingdom, along the lines of the Anglo-American Treaty, was not discussed.—Wireless and Reuter.

New Roads to Be Built In Peiping

Improvements Planned for Cities in North China

Peiping, Nov. 30.

The Reconstruction Administration of the "Provisional Government" has drafted plans for improving conditions in Peiping, Tientsin, Tsinan, Taiyuan, Shihchiachwang and Hsuchowfu, according to a Chinese report.

The main feature of the plans relating to Peiping is the extension of the Tung Chang An Chieh and the Hsi Chang An Chieh to the east and west walls of the city. For this purpose buildings in hutungs east of the Tung Tan Pai Lou and west of the Hsi Tan Pai Lou will be destroyed and macadamized roads built.

Upon completion the two roads will link with the Peiping-Tungchow highway in the east and with the Peiping-Fengtai highway in the west. Eventually a tramcar service will connect Peiping with Fengtai and Tungchow.—Reuter.

Overseas Chinese Registration

Time-limit Extended by Chungking

Chungking, Nov. 30.

At the request of the Foreign Office, the time limit for the registration of Chinese overseas has been extended by the Chinese Government.

It was originally planned to complete the registration of all Chinese abroad between 1936 and 1938, but since most Consulates abroad have not yet coompleted the registration of Chinese nationals residing in their respective areas, it is now suggested that, wherever special circumstances warrant, the time-limit for registration should be extended.—Reuter.

Kuling Conditions Described

125 Foreigners Living on Hill; Majority Expected To Stay During Winter

A total of 125 foreigners remaining at Kuling and most of them expect to remain there during the winter, according to a belated letter from a "North-China Daily News" correspondent, which has been delayed by fighting south of Kiukiang.

The correspondent states: about 50 foreigners have left Kuling recently, most of them returning to their work or to help in relief centres. Some of them had interesting experiences going down the hill by the road to the South, via Lushan and Tehan. Near the fighting area there was much bombing and often parties going down the hill had to lie down in ditches or take cover under the rocks and also to travel part of the way in the dark.

No foreigner has been reported hurt down the hill, and in fact the general report is that soldiers en route gave assistance and help whenever required. Several foreigners had seats in military motor lorries going to Nanchang. There are about 125 foreigners at Kuling and most, if not all, expect to remain here through the winter.

Nearly all are engaged in public work of some kind, either Red Cross, orphanage, hospital, school or public utility work. With a smaller population at Kuling the food problem has eased somewhat, though prices are still very high.

Expensive Rice

People were without eggs for several weeks but peasants are now coming in and selling at twelve for $1. Rice costs on the average $25 per picul. No fruit is available and practically no butter. Peanuts are 80 cents per catty, and salt about 50 cents per catty. Copies of the "North-China Daily News" have come through lately and had evidently had a "bath" en route. At this rate of living, many may be bankrupt before long. All use local wheat ground up to make bread, which is brownish shade, but the product is quite good and edible.

Many Chinese have been able to go to the foothills and get in their rice crops and other produce, which they have brought up here for sale. The only fear is that the remaining road out from Kuling may sooner or later be cut off and the place be isolated.

Acting on advice from higher quarters, nearly all Chinese families who came here for safety have evacuated to Nanchang and places further inland. A few thousand of the poorer classes remain, but steps are being taken to evacuate them.

Changteh Bombed By Japanese

"Important establishments" at the Hwangtupo aerodrome, south-east of Changteh, were also demolished, direct hits being scored against several objectiyes, the announcement claimed.

Large Haul of Guns And Ammunition

Man Arrested on Pontoon On Bund; Weapons Hidden In Bedding and Ship

Five thousand rounds of rifle ammunition, two Mauser revolvers, and about 50 rounds of Mauser ammunition were seized on Pontoon No. 2 off the Bund near Foochow Road and on board the Portuguese Navigation and Trading Company's steamer Faro on Tuesday, it was revealed in the First Special District Court yesterday when a prisoner appeared in court on charges of being concerned in a huge arms smuggling ring which sent weapons and ammunition from Shanghai to Tsungming Island and towns on the north bank of the Yangtze River.

It was also revealed that another consignment of 800 rounds of ammunition was seized on board another ship before it sailed for Chitung and Haimen on the north bank of the Lower Yangtze, but when Chang Ching-hai appeared in court to answer the charges of smuggling arms he denied any knowledge of the weapons and said that he only supervised the transportation of four bundles of bedding on instructions from another man. Upon the request of Mr. Thomas S. Lea, municipal advocate, a writ of detention was granted by Judge G Feng.

Chang, it was stated, was placed under arrest at the pontoon by Customs Inspector Houpe who noticed two suspicious bundles of bedding on the jetty. A search was made of the bundles and the ammunition was found. Two more bundles were located on board the Faro and some 5,000 rounds of ammunition recovered.

In a wicker basket were found two military type Mausers and 49 rounds of Mauser ammunition, Sergt. C.J.W. Fallace of the S.M.P. being notified and later in the morning Chang was taken to the Central Police Station.

At about the same time another Customs party seized a bundle containing 800 rounds of ammunition on board another ship which sailed for Chitung and Haimen but no arrests were made in connection with this seizure.

Although no statement was issued yesterday concerning the seizures, it is believed that the ammunition was destined for bandits operating in Tsungming Island and areas north of the Yangtze. The seizure was the largest since the cessation of hostilities in this area and it is believed that as a result of the case further information will be brought to light which will lead to the arrest of members concerned in the smuggling ring.

Arrested Three Years After Police Raid

Discovery of Drug Plant In American's Home

A sequel to a raid carried out three years ago by detectives from the Narcotic Section at Police Headquarters was heard in the First Special District Court yesterday, when the alleged leader of a narcotics manufacturing ring who had been arrested after a long span of freedom by an alert Chinese constable of the S.M.P. was remanded in custody until next week.

The man, Zung Chun-chuen, 42, native of Hankow was charged with manufacturing narcotics by Mr. Y. D. Wong, municipal advocate, who described how the raid was carried out at the servants' quarters of Mr. P. S. Hopkin's (American President of the Shanghai Power Co.) house in Lucerne Road in April 1935. Six men were arrested by Detective-Inspector Toon as a result of the raid and morphine manufacturing plants including chemicals and instruments were seized in two rooms in the servants' quarters.

In Servant's Quarters

Zung, alleged to be the leader, who lived at 128 Rue Ratard escaped during the raid but documents and a photograph of the wanted man were seized by the police. For over three years he remained free but on Tuesday he was recognised by C.D.C. 233 at the corner of Yunnan and Foochow Roads following a tip from an informer.

In court Zung denied the charges and the six men who were arrested as a result of the raid and have served their terms of imprisonment are being sought by the police to testify against the accused.

The original narcotics plant was located at House 12, Lane 339, Rue Bourgeat, it was revealed, and after a quarrel between Zung and a chemist named Wang it was removed to the home of Mr. Hopkins, who had no knowledge of its existence there as he had been home on leave to America. One of the servants a cook named Woo Sz-ching consented to the scheme, it was alleged, he being one of the six men to have been sentenced.

Future Programme Of R. A. Society

Increasing Interest Shown In Shanghai's Leading Cultural Institute

The local branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, at 20 Museum Road, has opened its 81st season of fortnightly meetings with a programme of lectures of a more popular nature than has hitherto been the case. On October 27 Mr. Arthur de Carle Sowerby, the President, gave an interesting talk on "Nature in a Shanghai Garden," which was illustrated with a series of specimens of the local fauna and flora. This was followed on November 10 by another most interesting lecture by the Rev. Earl H. Cressy on "Chinese Tomb Figures," in the course of which the lecturer exhibited a number of the remarkable pottery figures exhumed from graves of the Han, Sui, Wei, T'ang and Sung Dynasties, which reveal so much about life and culture in China during the thousand or more years covered by those historic periods.

The third lecture of the season was delivered on November 24 by Mr. Harry E. Gibson, his subject being the "Domesticated Animals of Shang and their Sacrifice." This was illustrated with lantern slides. In this Mr. Gibson described the animals used by the people of the Shang Dynasty, located in Honan, some three and a half thousand years ago, and how they offered them as sacrifices to their ancestors. This is proved by their pictographic writing left behind them on the shells of a land tortoise or turtle, now extinct, and on the shoulder and other bones of such animals as the ox, water-buffalo or deer. The animals used by the people of Shang in their sacrificial offering were the ox, sheep and goats, the pig and the dog. The lecturer also described how, by the burning in a certain way of the tortoise-shells and animal bones, the Shang diviners fortold events. It was because these bones with writings upon them were used for this purpose that they have been called "Oracle Bones." Such relics were first discovered at the beginning of the present century.

Animals in Chinese Medicine

The next lecture on the programme is to be one by Dr. Bernard E. Read of the Henry Lester Institute of Medical Research upon "Animals in Chinese Medicine," a subject upon which Dr. Read is an authority, and one which offers a fascinating field of research. This will be given on December 15 at the usual time and place.

An Innovation

It proposed to introduce an innovation into the activities of the Royal Asiatic Society this year by the holding of a social gathering or reception on the afternoon of December 29, when tea will be served and members and guests will be entertained by a display of coloured moving pictures, music, and, if possible, art and scientific exhibits.

On January 5, Dr. Yuanting T. Chu, leading Chinese ichthyologist, will lecture before the Society on the "Fresh-water Fishes of Shanghai," illustrating his lecture with lantern slides.

The Society's Annual Meeting will be held on January 19, which will be followed by further lectures in the Spring of 1939. Those so far arranged for are:

March 9, "Some Early Western Travellers in China," by Mrs. D. Roberts.

March 23, "Photography in Applied Science," by Mr. Vyvyan Dent.

April 6, "Rural Shanghai," by Mr. E. S. Wilkinson.

Other lectures will be announced when arranged for.

It is interesting to note that the popularity of the Shanghai Museum, one of the Royal Asiatic Society's major activities, is once more on the increase, the number of visitors during October being 1,295, which was more than double the number during the preceding month. Prior to the outbreak of hostilities in the Shanghai area nearly a year and a half ago the Museum was being visited each month by from two to three thousand people, mostly school children and college students, who found much of educational interest in its exhibits of animals and birds, shells fossils, minerals, coins and Chinese art and archaeological objects, attractively displayed in glass cases. But after the fighting in this area started attendance at the Museum almost ceased. During the past few months, however, more and more visitors have been making their appearance.

Society Deserves Support

In this connection it should be noted that, with the wholesale destruction of Chinese scientific and other such institutions that have taken place during the past eighteen months as a result of the Sino-Japanese war, cultural life in parts of China under Japanese occupation has practically ceased to exist. Even those Chinese cultural institutions that formerly existed in the Shanghai area have ceased to function or have for the most part moved their headquarters and such equipment as they were able to get away to various places in West and South-west China. Thus the Royal Asiatic Society, with its public lectures, its fine Library of valuable reference books on China and East Asia generally, and its Museum all open to the public free of charge, is now almost the only cultural institution of its kind in this part of China. As such it deserves the fullest support of both the Chinese and foreigners residing in this city, the more especially as it is the oldest institution of its kind in China, having been founded in 1857. Those interested in the activities of this Society should communicate with its Honorary Secretary, Mr. N. Maas, at 20 Museum Road, or by telephone 77849 for further details.

Ewo Challenge Cup Handicap

Dalgarno on Steve Brodie Wins by Three Lengths; Keswick Takes Second on Jaipur

By "The Chaser"

"DOLLY" Dalgarno won his third Ewo Handicap Challenge Cup yesterday when the famous annual race was held at noon at the Race Course. Riding Steve Brodie, a mount he only obtained at the last moment, he flashed past the post three lengths ahead of the reigning taipan of the Ewo, W. J. Keswick, who rode Jaipur. Even before he had reached the winning post, the big crowd that had gathered at the course, applauded and cheered him on to victory.

Twenty-two starters took the field and the start was delayed a bit owing to F. Leaver being thrown by Caluso at the start. However, a roar from the spectators indicated the start a few minutes later and W. J. Keswick lost no time in putting Jaipur through his paces while Thor (F. H. Skyrme) kept up with him for the first hundred yards and then dropped back slowly but steadily while Steve Brodie, who lost two lengths at the start, was gradually coming on.

Jaipur and Steve Brodie were running neck and neck when the last quarter was reached but when Dalgarno pressed Steve Brodie he shot out to the fore and galloped home a winner by three lengths while Sky Raider with the assistance of his owner G. G. C. Harper made a bold challenge but just managed to get to the post before Golden End to fill third place.

Scottish Airs

The "Old Firm" was doing a roaring trade under the Ewo umbrella and it is reliably rumoured that they had the best day of their long career. The pipers of the Seaforth Highlanders delighted the public with Scottish airs which gave a highland atmosphere to the proceedings.

November 30, 1938. St. Andrew's Day. Shanghai Course.

THE "EWO" HANDICAP CHALLENGE CUP. (Unofficial Race). ¾ mile.

As in former years, 20 per cent. of the total proceeds of the "Ewo" Handicap Sweep, after deduction of running costs, will be donated to St. Andrew's Society Charity Fund.

TRAINING GALLOPS

EARLY yesterday morning in fine weather on a slow track, Shanghai's racing ponies went through their training gallops at the S.R.C. in preparation for Saturday's Twelfth Extra Race Meeting. None of the times recorded were particularly fast, Goldenlight and Wet Morn covering the mile in 2.16, setting the fastest pace of the morning.

"Dolly" Dalgarno and Mr. C. S. Franklin's hard-working Steve Brodie who won the Ewo Challenge Cup Handicap yesterday from a large field of entries.

Cathedral School Too Strong For S.A.S.

Determined Attacks Win Football Match

In a rather scrappy soccer match marked by plenty of kick and rush played yesterday at the Race Course, the Cathedral School emerged victors from a tussle with the Shanghai American School by 4 goals to 2. The standard of football was not very high, a super-abundance of keenness causing forwards to stray from their positions.

The American School won the toss and elected to play against the wind. After a bit of wild kicking, the Cathedral School forwards broke away and after a mêlée around the goal area, Middleton shot wide. After the goal-kick, the American School centreforward, a fast, clever player seized the ball and dribbled the length of the field to tally the first goal for the Americans (0-1). On the resumption, the Cathedral forwards again carried the ball down to their opponents goal when an American School back handled in the penalty area. Fensham took the kick and scored (1-1).

In the second period, the Cathedral School again took the offensive and after a few minutes of play a goal was scored as the result of a corner. (2-1). In the third period the American School forwards started a rush but were quickly checked and the Cathedral School boys were again on the offensive. However, from a good clearance, the centre forward for the Americans broke away and scored (2-2).

Cathedral School Persistent

The persistent attack of the Cathedral School was not to be denied, however, and the third goal came when Morris dribbled down the wing and crossed the ball for Farmer to "first time" it into the net. (3-2). In the last period, the Americans began to kick wildly, their defence going to pieces. From one of these lapses Huggett tallied the fourth goal for the Cathedral School. There was no more scoring during the rest of the game.

For the Cathedral School Morris and Fensham as half-backs played sound games, while Farmer and Middleton constituted the thrust of the attack. Zellensky played a fairly good game as right back, but on the whole the team did not combine well, while the shooting was appalling. Cathedral School team: Popple, Zellensky, De Cosier; Morris, Fensham, Wallis; Frost, Middleton, Evans, and Huggett. Referee: Mr. R. L. Heath.

Kukuljevic Disgusted With Bad Manners

Manila Tennis Gallery Applauds Errors

Manila, Nov. 28.

Apparently disgusted with the poor sportsmanship of the spectators who packed the stands of the tennis courts at Rizal Memorial Stadium, Franjo Kukuljevic, Yugoslavia's outstanding player, virtually gave the match to Felicisimo Ampon, the "Bitsy Grant of the Philippines," tonight.

The little Filipino played superb tennis and won in three sets, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0, but his victory was not fully earned. The spectators practically won the exhibition match for him because their lack of court manners caused Kukuljevic to lose all interest in the game and present the deciding set to the Filipino.

Robert Mouvet, former junior Belgian champion, defeated Cesar Carmona, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, in the other exhibition singles matches.

Kukuljevic and Mouvet then beat Carmona and Ampon in the doubles, 8-6, 6-3. The European players will appear in their final matches tomorrow night.—United Press.

Brilliant Caledonian Ball

Local Scots Observe St. Andrew's Day in Traditional Style; Debutantes Presented

NO people who have strayed from their Homeland to set foot abroad maintain with such a fervour the customs and traditions of their native country as do Scotsmen in their widely scattered communities. Yesterday, the whole world belonged to Scotland for it was St. Andrew's Day and sons and daughters from across the Tweed, whether they were in Edinburgh or Glasgow, or thousands of miles away from the land of heather, rejoiced. In Shanghai with its large quota of Scots, the day was marked by gay festivities organized by St. Andrew's Society of Shanghai, culminating in the brilliant spectacle of the Caledonian Ball last night. The British Ambassador and Lady Clark Kerr, Sir Allan and Lady Mossop and Sir Herbert and Lady Phillips were unable to be present owing to the death of the Queen of Norway and the resultant British Court mourning.

Commencing at 8.30 a.m. with the annual wreath-laying ceremony at the War Memorial, where a large crowd assembled, the observances of the national day were marked by the remembrance of those Scotsmen who had passed on, all present at the impressive ceremony standing bareheaded while Pipe Major J. Forbes of the Shanghai Scottish played that famous lament "Flowers of the Forest."

The President of St. Andrew's Society of Shanghai (Mr. W. J. Keswick) assisted by the Vice-President (Mr. A. Pollock), and supported by the Committee and a number of members of the Society laid a floral tribute in the Society's colours on the Memorial, while other wreaths were laid by Major T. W. R. Wilson, and Captain C. B. Blaikie for the Shanghai Scottish Company, S.V.C.

At noon almost every member of the Scottish community was to be seen on the stands of the Shanghai Race Club as with hundreds of other excited spectators they witnessed the annual Ewo Handicap Challenge Cup Race. The usually brilliant scene was enlivened this year by the pipers and drummers of the Seaforth Highlanders, who have done so much to enrich Shanghai's sporting and general events since their arrival in the city.

The Ball

In the evening came the most brilliant spectacle as a fitting climax to the day's festivities, when about 900 guests, representing, in addition to the Scottish community, many members of other nations, attended the Caledonian Ball held in the beautifully decorated ballroom of the Cercle Sportif Francais. Here the traditional procession of the Haggis guarded by drawn sword, the dancing of Scottish reels and the presentation of debutantes, enriched the already colourful scene and clearly demonstrated to the Sassenachs present that it must be left to Scotsmen to organize such brilliant scenes as were witnessed during the Ball. Sadly missed, however, were the leading Britons in Shanghai and the red jackets and plaid kilts of the Seaforth Highlanders officers, which were not worn as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Queen Maud of Norway.

The President and Mrs. W. J. Keswick were piped in at 8.55 p.m. by the combined pipers of the 1st Battalion, Seaforth Highlanders and the Shanghai Scottish, and as the latter played a selection of Scottish tunes in the ballroom, the guests were received by the President and his wife.

After the third official dance at 10.30 p.m. the eleven debutantes formed up in the centre of the ballroom, being escorted by their parents and members of the Reception Committee, headed by Pipe-Major J. Forbes of the Shanghai Scottish to a position in front of the President's enclosure where they were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Keswick by Brigadier-General E. B. Macnaghten, C.M.G., D.S.O.

Debutantes

As each girl reached the enclosure she was handed a floral bouquet by the President consisting of white roses, carnations and sweet peas tied with blue and white ribbons and fastened with silver brooches. After reforming into line the debutantes curtseyed and were piped from the dance floor.

This year's list of debutantes was as follows: Miss Jean MacKenzie, Miss Jean McNicoll, Miss Joan Carrel, Miss Joan S. M. Ogilvie, Miss Kathleen Clark, Miss Jean Findlay Huchinson, Miss Audrey Brister, Miss Jean Todd, Miss Frances Long, Miss Bessie Stead, and Miss Marjorie Eynon.

At 11.55 p.m., following the playing of reels by Seaforth pipers, the Presidential party went into supper and the famous Haggis procession formed up. Borne aloft by Mr. Thomas Hutchinson and guarded by the drawn sword of Major T. W. R. Wilson with the sauce being carried by Mr. A. Montgomery, Quartermaster Sergeant of the Shanghai Scottish, the Haggis was followed by the huge mull (the sheep's heid) carried by an equally massive individual in the person of Mr. Russell Currie, while other mulls were carried by Sergt. J. Henry, Cpl. C. J. Austen Gray, Cpl. Baxter and C.S.M. J. Robertson all members of the Shanghai Scottish Company, S.V.C.

Haggis Procession

Headed by the Pipe Major of the Seaforth Highlanders and the Shanghai Scottish the procession, after marching round the ballroom through the supper rooms, ended behind the President's chair when the usual toast was drunk by the Pipe Major of the Seaforth Highlanders.

The Presidential party in the supper procession was as follows: The President and Mrs. Yarnell, Admiral Yarnell and Mrs. Keswick, the Vice-President and Mrs. Telfer Smollet, Mr. C. S. Franklin and Mrs. Pollock, Col. J. C. Fegan and Mrs. Franklin, Capt. Sandford and Mrs. Fegan, Col. W. J. Hornby and Mrs. Wolfe-Murray, Col. Wolfe-Murray and Mrs. Gilmore, Lt.-Commander Gilmore and Mrs. Hopkyn Rees, Mr. T. G. Drakeford and Mrs. Smith, Mr. A. H. Hopkyn Rees and Miss D. L. Franklin, Mr. F. R. Smith and Mme. Elzear, M. T. Elzear and Lady Samson and Sir George Samson and Mrs. R. G. MacDonald. Following the time-honoured procession and the supper, dancing and merriment continued until a late hour.

Guests and Decorations

The official guests were: Admiral and Mrs. H. E. Yarnell, Mrs. A. P. D. Telfer Smollet, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Franklin, Miss Dallas Lee Franklin, Col. and Mrs. J. C. Fegan, Capt. C. S. Sandford, O.B.E., R.N., Col. J. W. Hornby, M.C., Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Wolfe Murray, Lt.-Commander and Mrs. P. C. Gilmore, Mr. T. C. Drakeford, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hopkyn Rees, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Smith, M. and Mme. M. T. Elzear and Sir George and Lady Samson.

The scheme of decorations this year was entirely on new lines but the use of clan shields and floral decorations was retained as they had been the main item of previous years' schemes which had met with the approval of those attending the ball. The canopy over the main entrance was outlined in blue and white lights and strings of similar lights were carried up to the main building.

In the vestibule the general decorative scheme was in white and blue—the colours of St. Andrew's Society—while facing the entrance doors were banked pot flowers surmounted by a gilded lifelike figure of St. Andrew on a dark blue background. Round the walls were arranged clan shields and flags with pot flowers in the corners. Floodlighting of St. Andrew's figure added to the brilliancy of the scene.

Blue and White

The balustrade to the staircase was covered with blue and white cloth and the walls bore clan shields and flags at intervals. The entrance into the Mah-Jong room, facing the head of the staircase was draped with large St. Andrew's flags surmounted by crossed halberds and a Royal Stewart shield, flanked with blue and white banners with a rampant lion in red emblazoned.

To the left head of the staircase was arranged the Society's regalia and to the rear, covering the windows facing the grounds, were draped flags and the clan shield of one of the past President's of the Society. Beneath the shield was a lifelike figure of one of the Highland V.C.s of the Great War, this representation being illuminated by floodlighting and flanked by palm and pot plants.

The main decoration of the ballroom consisted of banners in blue and white emblazoned with a rampant lion in red and surmounted by clan shields and flags. The walls at the rear of this had as a centre figure a large St. Andrew's flag with a large shield bearing the President's crest suspended in the centre. This feature was flanked by standards bearing golden pennants and banners in blue and white with clan shields and flags.

The opposite side of the ballroom was decorated with similar banners, shields and flags while the railings to the balcony were draped in blue and white. The back of the bandstand had the clan shield of one of the Vice-Presidents over the centre of the arch flanked by banners and smaller shields and flags, while the front of the band platform was draped in blue and white cloth.

On either side of the bandstand were flood lighted figures of Highland V.C.s the remaining space being filled by banked pot flowers, etc. With a view to obviating crowding in the entrance lobby and the difficulty of partners finding each other the four corners of the ballroom were marked by a large letter and a picture of a typical well-known Scottish building or scene such as "E" with a picture of Edinburgh Castle. The letters were also engraved on the dance programmes.

Committees

The decorations in the supper room were restricted to clan shields, flags, crossed broad swords, and halberds, but behind the President's table hung a large St. Andrew's flag with a shield bearing the President's crest suspended in the centre. Tables were adorned white cloths and blue and white table centres with white flowers and heather as table decorations.

The Ball Sub-Committees were as follows:

Invitations:—Mr. Rod. G. MacDonald, (Convener) Messrs. Jas. Macbeth, N. C. Macgregor and J. H. Keswick. Reception:—Brig.-Gen. E. B. Macnaghten, (Convener) Messrs. Rod. G. St. Andrew's Day in Shanghai

The Scottish community of Shanghai yesterday celebrated St. Andrew's Day in traditional manner. Picture shows the scene at the War Memorial when Messrs. W. J. Keswick, President of St. Andrew's Society, and Mr. A. Pollock, Vice-President, placed a wreath on the Memorial.

Victorian Styles For Debutantes

Lovely Frocks of Women Guests Add Charm to St. Andrew's Day Ball

Frocks were especially lovely this year at the brilliant Caledonian Ball held last night, the full skirts of the predominating Victorian influence giving unrivalled opportunity for the display of magnificence or daintiness of fabric. Giving place aux débutantes, 1938's Scottish buds who made their formal curtsies to Shanghai in general and the President of St. Andrew's Society and his Lady in particular on this latest St. Andrew's night were kirtled as follows:

Miss Joan Mackenzie wore white velvet with puff sleeves and a full skirt, silver shoes and a wreath of daisies in her hair. Ribbons of the Mackenzie tartan, held in place by the Mackenzie crest, fell from her left shoulder. Miss Jean Findlay Huchinson's McLeod tartan sash was worn over a white net frock of which the hooped skirt was trimmed with Gobelin embroidery. Silver shoes completed her toilette and as ornament she wore a pearl necklace and brooch. Miss Bessie Stead was in a high-waisted frock of white georgette with accordion-pleated bodice and full skirt sparkling with diamenté. Her jewellery was an amethyst pendant.

Miss Joan Stewart Menzies Ogilvie was dressed in ivory Chantilly lace, with off-the-shoulder puffed sleeves and three-tiered skirt. Her headdress was a gold leaf halo, and her shoes and bag were of gold. Miss Audrey Brister's white satin Victorian frock was made with the neckline of the period, tight waist and very full skirt, the neckline and hem being edged with small frills of the satin. Two pale pink velvet roses were worn on the bodice and a rose in her hair, while she carried a big ostrich feather fan in two shades of coral. Her shoes were silver and she wore a double necklace of pearls.

White Lace

Miss Joan Carrel was dressed in white lace with a silver buckle and silver shoes and bag. As ornament she wore a pearl and ruby pendant. Miss Jean McNicoll wore an Early Victorian frock of pale turquoise net embroidered in pink rosebuds, and completed by a crystal necklace. Miss Kathleen Clark chose a Patou gown of white embroidered cloqué made with a long waist and full skirt. The waist was clasped with diamenté and white gardenias edged her off-the-shoulders sleeves. Silver shoes and a white bag were her accessories and she wore a silver pendant.

Miss Frances Long wore a bouffant frock of white taffeta, the bodice, with its heart-shaped neckline and off-the-shoulder sleeves, being hand-embroidered in gold thread in a solid design. White gardenias were in her hair, and she wore gold shoes and carried a gold purse. Miss Jean Todd's Victorian frock was of pearl-coloured French tulle with matching taffeta slip, the off-the-shoulder neckline caught with a posy of old-world flowers. The full skirt was embroidered with true-lovers' knots of ruched tulle. Her shoes and bag were silver. Miss Margery Eynon wore pale blue and white flowered georgette made in redingote style, falling over a white taffeta slip, and completed by silver shoes.

Mrs. W. J. Keswick wore a dress of white slipper satin made with a tight bodice and full skirt. Over it was worn a Fraser tartan sash held in place by a diamond brooch. The red of the Fraser tartan was finely complemented by the green of her emerald and diamond necklace, jade and diamond ring and earrings, and the diamond brooch on her corsage. Mrs. C. S. Franklin's purple velvet gown had a red and green chiffon scarf. Gold shoes, bag and gold jewellery completed the ensemble. Mrs. A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett was in flame and gold brocade and wore a diamond tiara.

Gold Lame

Mrs. R. A. Wolfe-Murray's dress was of gold lamé, with which the green of her Murray tartan shoulder sash made most effective contrast. Mrs. A. H. Hopkyn Rees had chosen a French model frock of red velvet. Mrs. P. R. M. Wallis was in heavy black crepe cut on straight lines. With it she wore gold shoes and a gold lamé bag, with gold earrings, clip and bracelet.

Mrs. F. R. Smith's black and silver frock was trimmed with silver kid and completed with silver shoes and a silver link bracelet. Mme. M. T. Elzéar wore black tinselled velvet, her jewels being sapphires and diamonds.

Mrs. E. B. Macnaghten was in a bouffant frock of black silk made with a plain tight-fitting bodice and ruchings of the same material. With it she wore a large brooch and drop earrings of seed pearls. Mrs. K. M. Bourne's frock was of black net, made very full, with the new strapless decolletage, and a white camellia on the corsage. Mrs. P. D. G. Gain wore bottle-green chiffon velvet, with gold shoes and bag.

Grecian Style

Mrs. Harry E. Yarnell wore a dress of white and gold lamé, her jewels being pearls. Mrs. Ranald G. McDonald's Lanvin model of black velvet had a pale jade-green capelet heavily embroidered in silver and paillettes. Her elbow-length sleeves were separate from her frock and were embroidered to match. Her high swirled headdress was encrusted with silver and paillettes and fastened with a jade-green comb. She wore jade earrings. Miss D. Bowden's dress of cyclamen satin was cut on Grecian lines.

Mrs. H. Martin Little had chosen a princess gown in French moiré of a magenta shade. Over it was a coat of Coronation brocade. As ornament she wore a platinum and diamond pendant. Miss Merren Martin Little's frock was a Balenciaga model of white cellophane-checked taffeta and silver lamé, worn with an old-fashioned necklace of green peridot and pearls. Mrs. C. B. Ogilvie was in silver lamé cut very simply. Her chiffon sash was in two shades of red and she wore silver shoes and carried a silver bag.

Mrs. R. D. Murray wore a Molyneux model of midnight-blue lace cut on very slender lines, the bodice embroidered with sequin flowers in the same shade. Her shoes were silver and her bag of silver sequins. Her tiara was of small midnight-blue ostrich feathers tipped with silver. Mrs. A. Pollock's model Victorian frock was of Burgundy velvet and crêpe, with shoes and bag to match. Mrs. M. Reader Harris was in peach-coloured chiffon velvet gathered at the waist and shoulders. Her shoes and bag were gold.

Scotch Blue

Mrs. James Macbeth's dress was of Scotch blue and maple yellow shot taffeta, with rainbow-sequined collar and appliqué design of the same sequins on the full skirt. A shoulder sash of Macbeth tartan was worn. Mrs. C. B. Blaikie's Victorian gown was in deep royal cyclamen taffeta, the heart-shaped neckline edged with a narrow taffeta frill and the skirt embroidered with gold baskets of appliquéd flowers in pastel shades to tone. Gold jewellery and accessories were worn. Mrs. Donald MacDonald wore black chiffon velvet trimmed with black net. Her ornaments were diamente clips.

Mrs. E. A. Long was dressed in French velvet in a rich wine colour, with a softly draped off-the-shoulders bodice and the skirt falling in soft folds. Gold lamé enriched the neckline and belt and gold lamé gloves completed the ensemble. She carried a diamenté and gold purse. Mrs. R. Fyfe was in a gown of midnight-blue silk lace, with silver shoes and bag to match. Her jewels were diamonds.

Mrs. William Lyle wore marocain in two shades of orchid, with a corsage of shaded bead flowers to tone, her shoes and bag being silver. Mrs. D. Campbell was in a Molyneux Victorian model of black moiré. A scarlet and gold feather was in her hair and she wore gold shoes. Her jewellery was in gold. Miss Margaret Marsh's frock was of blue transparent georgette, the bodice glittering with sequins and the skirt softly accordion-pleated, her shoes being gold. Miss Barbara Stranack's pale mauve full-skirted moiré taffeta frock had a wide sash ending in long streamers. The front of the bodice was gathered and had a row of small buttons of the same material at front and back. A narrow frilling trimmed the neckline and shoulders.

Register Mark Regulations

Berlin, Nov. 30.

According to an announcement made here, Register Mark payments for purposes of personal support can be transmitted from abroad without a license fee if the corresponding amount for consignments already approved by the Reichsbank is paid in to a local bank before December 1. Persons who have already been granted the right to send Register Marks for purposes of support to Germany, can send the amounts approved by the Reichsbank in the same manner as before, i.e. without payment of license fee. Orders for such payments must however be given to the bank before December 1.—Trans-Ocean.

Berlin Bourse

Berlin, Nov. 29.

The restraint which has been evident during the past few days on the share market continued today with most shares losing fractions of points. The general turnover however remained small so that these small changes in price levels made little difference. The chief topic of discussion on the bourse were the methods which will be used to liquidate Jewish holdings in securities. —Reuter.

Tuesday's Closing Quotations

New York, Nov. 29.

The cotton market early advanced on higher Liverpool and Bombay advices, covering and speculative buying, but later reacted on liquidation and profit taking. Later, prices ruled very narrow, with professional selling being partially offset by the strength of Wall Street. Finally, the market again advanced on trade buying and closed very steady, with quotations ranging from 1 to 3 points up.

The rubber market opened steady and prices soon moved higher, influenced by better cables. December liquidation was well absorbed. Later, prices further hardened on dealer buying and the better tone of Wall Street. At the last call over, gains of 22 to 29 points were recorded.

Wheat prices in Chicago today opened quiet, being partially depressed by the heaviness of Liverpool. Later, prices advanced on covering by shorts, a favourable cash demand, commission house buying and more speculative interest. At the final bell, gains of ⅜ to a ½ cent. were recorded.

Tuesday's Closing Quotations

New York, Nov. 29.

Stock prices on Wall Street today closed with the list finishing on the upside, though the volume of business passing was not large. The industrial section again came in for most attention, with oils being singled out particularly. The French situation and the gyrations of sterling had a retarding influence, and were for the most part closely watched. The turnover today amounted to 820,000 shares.

Dow-Jones Summary

Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Traders continued to remain cautious on the Stock Exchange today, despite the improvement in sentiment. Business news continued to be favourable, although the outlook is considered to be unfavourable for further advances in major lines, except in the retail trade. Encouraging features were the strength of the London stock market and the improved technical position of our market.
